CHACO WAR CAUSES LEAGUE COUNCIL TO CHANGE PROGRAMME

South American Nations Cause Postponement of Consideration at Geneva of France's Protest Against German Rearmament—Somaliland Border Dispute to Be Taken Up in May

GENEVA, April 15 (CP-Havas).—The Franco-Soviet plan to put new teeth into Article 16 of the League of Nations covenant as an answer to German rearmament, met a snag today when certain South American nations on the league council showed resistance to any measures that might affect their attitude on the Chaco warfare.

The threat of war in Europe and the jungle conflict between Bolivia and Paraguay thus were brought together, as French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval and Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff concluded a series of urgent conferences with Europe's delegates to the League to set the scene for tomorrow's session of the council.

POSTPONE DISCUSSION

Meeting in private today, the council postponed until tomorrow discussion of France's official protest against Germany's rearmament, because of the South American objections. These, it was hoped, would be settled by tomorrow. Since France's protest may result in a council move to provide economic and financial sanctions against any nation further violating treaty obligations, South American countries hesitated today to give their support, fearing such a ruling would apply directly to the Chaco belligerents and force a showdown before neighbor South American nations are able to settle the war by diplomatic negotiations.

MAKING MOVES TOWARD PEACE

Negotiations for Tri-Lateral Naval Conference Quickly Follow Stresa Meeting

LONDON, April 15 (AP).—With negotiations under way for tri-lateral naval conversations between Britain, Russia and Germany and with the Little Entente considering the question of increased armaments for Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria, events seemed shaping tonight toward active peace moves in the wake of the Stresa Conference and the League Council session at Geneva.

As Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald prepared to outline his accomplishments at the Stresa Conference to the Cabinet, naval quarters heard that invitations had been sent to Berlin and Moscow to participate in technical naval discussions here in the near future.

Reports from Paris said Foreign Minister Laval was planning to leave on Saturday for Moscow to sign the widely heralded Bi-lateral Defence Pact with the Soviet Foreign Minister.

DETERMINED UNITY
STRESA, Italy, April 15 (CP).—A determined unity among the three great Western European Powers was seen in conference circles today as the most significant contribution to peace resulting from the tripartite conversations of Great Britain, France and Italy.

Although disappointment was voiced in some quarters that the discussions had produced no more concrete achievements, those who viewed the efforts with satisfaction pointed out that broader undertakings were impossible without the participation of Germany.

The opinion was general as the focal point of the movement for European stability moved from Stresa to Geneva that the "panic of war" had been largely dispelled by the developments of the last few days.

BELGIUM CANNOT LET THINGS SLIDE

Former Foreign Minister Says Air Treaty Her First Interest—Must Fortify

BRUSSELS, April 15 (CP-Havas).—Belgium's first interest now is to conclude the proposed air assistance treaty to strengthen the Locarno pact, Paul Hymans, former Foreign Minister and now minister without portfolio, told the Chamber of Deputies today.

Fortification of the Eastern border also must be carried to conclusion, he said, because "Belgium cannot allow a country to disregard the consequences of a unilateral act." He was referring to the Reich's proclamation on March 16 of compulsory military service in violation of the Versailles Treaty.

Eighty Per Cent Of Prosperity Has Come Back Again

Chancellor of Exchequer Discloses Budget Surplus Nearly Ten Times Greater Than Estimated—Industrial Output and Exports Enormously Increased—Smaller Taxpayer to Benefit

LONDON, April 15 (CP).—Full restoration of the Civil Service wage cut imposed in the crisis of 1931, with income tax concessions in the lowest grade, were features of another balanced budget presented today to the House of Commons.

Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, after pointing to the substantial progress achieved in the past year, budgeted for a surplus again in the coming twelve months, and mildly observed that the results achieved in this country had no parallel abroad. "We have regained 80 per cent of our prosperity," he declared.

Spruce and smiling, the Chancellor rose from his seat beside the rather careworn-looking Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, just back from Stresa, to be greeted by general cheers, which caused him to smile the more. It was his fourth budget.

GENERAL SATISFACTION
The House was crowded. There were no startling surprises but general satisfaction was evident. Points of particular interest to the taxpayer were these:

Concessions in regard to income tax methods of assessment; increased exemption for married men and increases for children allowances; abolition of the entertainment tax on theatre seats costing not more than sixpence; reduction in the entertainment tax on more expensive seats for performances other than "movies"; full restoration of the former 10 per cent civil service

TWO BOYS SAVED IN PUGET SOUND

Are Picked Up by Tanker After Clinging to Keel of Boat for Three Hours

SEATTLE, April 15 (AP).—After clinging to the keel of a capsized catboat for three hours, Peter Dix and John Rupp, each twenty-one, were rescued from Puget Sound late today by the outboard Associated Oil tanker Frank H. Buck.

She lowered a lifeboat, picked up the boys and stood by their frail craft until a coast guard patrol boat arrived and took them ashore.

At home tonight, the boys said they were on John's catboat, towing Peter's flattie off West Point, with sail hoisted and outboard motor running, when the flattie broke loose and the catboat turned over in a squall while she was being manoeuvred to pick up the tow again.

PREMIER RAPIDLY REGAINING HEALTH

OTTAWA, April 15 (CP).—For the second time since his long confinement in a sick-room, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was out today for a long motor drive. It was stated at his office that the outing seemed to be hastening Mr. Bennett's recovery, and that he would probably be strong enough to start his journey to England at the end of this week, as planned.

Blue Ribbons Defeat Winnipeg Toilers in First Hoop Fixture

Victoria Quintette Swamps Visitors in Western Cage Series, 53-23

PEDEN TOPS SCORERS WITH TWENTY POINTS

Running through their much lighter and smaller opponents almost at will to win easily, Victoria Blue Ribbons stepped closer to their season's objective, another Canadian championship, when they turned back the Winnipeg Toilers last night at the Willows before a big audience in the first of a two-out-of-three-game series for the Western Canada basketball supremacy by a 53 to 23 score. Taking possession of the situation from the opening whistle, the local quintette was never pressed during the forty minutes, and should end the series tomorrow evening when the squads meet again in the second game.

Using a strong aerial attack throughout—one which the Winnipeggers were helpless to stop—the Ribbons would have made the score much larger had they been more careful with their passes. The tea and coffee lads jumped into an early lead and coasted to victory from then on. The Toilers were trying, that much must be said about them, but they were sadly outclassed from the beginning. Presenting a powerful defence, the Ribbons forced the Toilers to cage most of their shots from long range.

MAJOR OPENS GAME

Introduced to the fans by Manager J. A. Barnswell, of the Ribbons, Mayor David Leeming welcomed the Winnipeg team on behalf of the city and then tossed up the first ball. Just before this ceremony, the crowd stood in silence, respecting two late members of the Winnipeg squad, Joe Dadds and Mike Shea, who were killed in an airplane crash March 31, 1933, on the

ALLEGED PLOT NIPPED IN BUD

May Have Included Plan to Assassinate Mussolini—Two Arrests Made

GENEVA, April 15 (AP).—The League of Nations Building at Geneva was virtually an armed fortress tonight, because of the reported arrest at Marseille of two alleged plotters against the lives of prominent statesmen here. Police were almost as numerous as at Stresa.

The reported plot was said to have included the slaying of Premier Mussolini at Stresa, and outrages upon men like Foreign Ministers Pierre Laval of France, Nicholas Titulescu of Rumania, and Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia. It was revealed tonight by a reliable informant that an attempt was made on the life of Benes about two years ago in the League Building, but the would-be assassin was arrested and the incident hushed up.

Marseille dispatches said the terrorist scare was caused by the act of a woman in changing her age on a passport, resulting in the expulsion from France of Eda Caroli and Rudolph Gundescher on charges of carrying false passports.

Finds No "Leak" Of Plans to End Power Contracts

Investigator Tells Ontario Legislature That No Information Was Given Out by Government and Proposal Was Well-Kept Secret—Seller Went "Short" as Result of Speeches

TORONTO, April 15 (CP).—Investigating charges in connection with the Ontario Government's intention to terminate Quebec power contracts, J. M. Godfrey, Ontario securities commissioner, found no "leak" had taken place, according to his report tabled in the Legislature tonight by Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck.

Col. W. H. Price (Conservative, Toronto-Parkdale) had charged a "leak" during his address in the Power Bill debate and demanded an investigation.

"As a general result of the investigation the commission finds there is no information given out by the Government or anybody connected with the Government," Mr. Godfrey reported. "It is the opinion in financial circles that there was no leak and that the policy of the Government was an extremely well kept secret."

DUST DISRUPTS ROAD TRAFFIC

Drought Situation on U.S. Plains Worse Than Year Ago, Officials Announce

KANSAS CITY, April 15 (CP).—Vagrant winds blew traffic-stalling dust in Southern Colorado today, tossed a mild threat of cold at fruit buds in Missouri and Kansas, fanned flames of an orphanage fire near St. Louis and hindered shipping on Lake Erie.

At Washington, the Department of Agriculture said the drought situation in the Western plains on April 1 was "even worse" than at the same time last year.

READY TO START PACIFIC FLIGHT

ALAMEDA, Cal., April 15 (AP).—A trail blazer of a commercial air line to the Orient, the Pan-American clipper will take off from here at 4 p.m. tomorrow, unless an unforeseen postponement occurs, on a 2,401-mile flight to Hawaii.

The flying boat went aloft today on the final test flight of a series which engineers said had thoroughly proved the accuracy of a new radio compass to guide it on its long over-water journey.

In command of the four-motored amphibian will be Edwin C. Musick, veteran aviator, who has been named captain of the first flight to inaugurate an 8,500-mile transport service between the United States and the Orient.

ANTI-GERMAN FEELING HIGH AMONG POLES

Violent Demonstrations Are Staged Over Week-End—Nazi Dies of Injuries

MANY OTHERS HURT IN SHARP CLASHES

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, April 15 (AP).—Violent demonstrations against Nazi Germany flared over the week-end in the Polish Corridor, leaving one Nazi dead today and many others wounded.

Uneasiness was felt, although officials said tonight passions which flared into violence had cooled. Anti-German feeling broke out in the Baltic and Pomeranian coal fields, while several demonstrations were reported in Upper Silesia, where Poles, allegedly urged by officials, are up in arms against German minority schools.

MANHANDLE GERMANS

The favorable Polish showing in the Danzig elections apparently emboldened residents of the Free City to manhandle Germans for "attempting to Germanize us."

Fritz Broen, Nazi, who was wounded in week-end fighting at Katz, Pomerania, died today. Many others were seriously hurt as disorders broke out in half-a-dozen towns in the neighborhood of Danzig over Sunday.

A dispatch from Krolewski, Upper Silesia, said children were urged to rebel against their parents, and German mothers were called "sows and dogs" in anti-German hate demonstrations throughout the region. Reports in Warsaw said strong Polish antagonism over Nazi attempts to award German military crosses to former German army men living in Poland also brought about the disturbances.

Behind it, it was pointed out, lies 1,000 years of enmity between the

WANTS TO CURB RAIL PRESIDENT

Member Asks House to Stop or Combat Propaganda of C.P.R. Head

OTTAWA, April 15 (CP).—E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was described in the House of Commons today as Canada's public enemy number one for his attacks on the Canadian National system. F. R. Sanderson (Liberal, South Perth) applied the expression, calling on the Government to stop the propaganda or combat it.

The Western Ontario Liberal claimed Mr. Beatty was attempting to poison the minds of the people against their own railway and to depreciate it so that his company eventually could gobble it up and operate the two systems in Canada.

NO SPEAKING VENDETTA

Minister of Railways R. J. Manion said he could not instruct Hon. C. P. Fullerton, chairman of the C.N.R. board of trustees, to make speeches, but he himself had made three speeches recently against Mr. Beatty's viewpoint. If misstatements about the C.N.R. were made, someone should correct them, but it was debatable whether Judge Fullerton and Mr. Beatty should cover the country in a speaking vendetta.

"My own opinion," Mr. Manion said, "was that the feeling for amalgamation was so slight in spite of Mr. Beatty's arguments that there was no great body of public opinion for it in this country."

SHOULD BE STOPPED

Mr. Beatty was conducting a systematic campaign, Mr. Sanderson claimed, to attack the credit of the C.N.R. He believed the Government should stop him because he, the head of the C.N.R.'s chief competitor, should be the last man to attack it.

C.N.R. Bonds Are Taken Up Quickly

MONTREAL, April 15 (CP).—Bond dealers tonight reported the $13,400,000 2 per cent bond of Canadian National Railways maturing in 1938 was over-subscribed several times.

The issue, with $35,000,000 in nine-year 3 per cent bonds was announced today and will be offered to the public tomorrow. Proceeds of the issue will be used entirely for refunding purposes, it was announced.

Railways Seeking Leave to Abandon Many Short Lines

Canadian Pacific Would Tear Up Two Branches in Kootenays—Canadian National Has Twenty-Four Applications Before Board at Ottawa—Five Provinces Affected

OTTAWA, April 15 (CP).—The Board of Railway Commissioners said today it has before it twenty-four applications from the Canadian National Railways and four from the Canadian Pacific Railway for abandonment of branch lines in five provinces, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

TWO HELD FOR BLACKMAILING

Two Men Charged With Seeking Money for Withholding Faded Photos

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP).—Detectives today arrested two alleged blackmailers as they strode away from the home of George U. Harris, stockbroker, with a book supposedly containing $5,000, the price demanded of Mrs. Harris for withholding a faded photograph from her husband.

Police said a similar letter had been sent to Mrs. James H. R. Cromwell, the former Doris Duke, tobacco heiress, last Fall. The demand in her case was $25,000, but it was not paid, police said.

FAKED PHOTOGRAPH

Mrs. Harris, daughter of Leroy Baldwin, president of the Empire Trust Company, received a letter April 8, containing a faded photograph showing her in a compromising position and demanding $5,000 if she desired it withheld from her husband.

She at once showed the letter to her husband, and police were notified. Today's police trap followed. The prisoners identified themselves as Arthur Ulisse, twenty-four, a laborer, and Dominick Pilotti, twenty-five, also a laborer.

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 15 (AP).—Fifteen persons drowned today when a riverboat carrying more than eighty persons capsized in the Rio Magdalena near Barranquilla.

TAKING A HOLIDAY

OTTAWA, April 15 (CP).—Hon. H. H. Stevens, former chairman of the price spreads and mass buying commission and Minister of Trade and Commerce, has left Ottawa on a ten-day holiday. It was learned today, Mr. Stevens, it was said, did not make known his destination.

Seeking Peace Formula

Captain Anthony Eden scratches his head at a question that came up in discussion of German threat to peace of Europe in conversations in Moscow with Joseph Stalin (centre), Soviet dictator, and V. M. Molotov, Commissar for the Russian War Department.

LONDON, April 15 (CP).—C. T. de Water, high commissioner in London for South Africa, said tonight he believed the foreign policies of the nations of the British Commonwealth had not been studied sufficiently by the Empire or by the countries of the Empire as a group.

Addressing delegates to the Imperial Press Conference, he said: "We have not studied the problem of our relations with the outside world sufficiently closely. The world should be inoculated with the germ of peace rather than overcome as at present with the tragedy of war."

PRESS SHOULD ASSIST

Mr. de Water said that the press could perform invaluable service to the world in this direction if it was organized to mould public opinion.

Cecil Harmsworth, brother of Viscount Rothermere, who presided at a banquet tendered the delegates, said that during their visit to South Africa they attended "three meetings, six garden parties, sixteen receptions, eight banquets and twenty luncheons—which occasioned misgivings as to whether they would enjoy any further hospitality."

IMMENSE BENEFIT

He added, however, that the delegates had a strenuous time in other directions. Their association with statesmen and newspapermen of South Africa was bound to be an immense benefit in dealing with any problems arising between Britain and South Africa.

Major J. J. Astor, chairman of The Times, described the tour as "an excursion into Wonderland." He said the delegates returned with a greater confidence than ever in the flexibility and durability of the structure of the Empire.

CHACO WAR CAUSES ALTERED SCHEDULE

France submitted to the consideration of the League of Nations Council a vigorously-worded memorandum charging Germany with having compromised negotiations for limitation of armaments and having threatened "the whole idea of international relations."

DELIBERATE DESTRUCTION

The French document characterized the German military moves as "the culmination of long and methodical labors pursued in secret." The action, it said, "has deliberately destroyed one of the bases" of Germany's collaboration with the League of Nations.

Meanwhile, France and the Soviet Union were active all day in discussions with representatives of Poland, the Little Entente and the Balkan Entente. The question of rearmament by Austria, Bulgaria and Hungary was one of the chief topics of conversation. It is understood, but all the talk bore directly or indirectly on France's protest against rearmament of the Reich.

MUST WAIT TILL MAY

Today's council session postponed discussion of the Somali border dispute between Italy and Ethiopia until the regular council meeting in May.

The council decided not to discuss Ethiopia's dispute with Italy in the present extraordinary session. Instead devoting itself entirely to France's appeal.

The council intimated to Italy and Ethiopia that both nations should proceed with the conciliation of their frontier conflict, and indicated that unless the two nations get together and name arbitrators that the council will take up the dispute in its May session.

REFUSAL IMPROBABLE

ROME, April 15 (AP).—A Government spokesman said tonight "optimism is felt" that Adolf Hitler would hardly refuse an invitation to the Danubian conference here in May "under the circumstances."

The attitude of the German Government toward the conference is not known by Italy, he added.

Countries to be invited to the Danubian conference are Britain, France, Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania, Poland and Hungary, it was announced tonight.

INTENDED AS WARNING

GENEVA, April 15.—While the League of Nations' Council pondered the French protest on German rearmament, a reliable informant here disclosed tonight the action of Britain and Italy in reaffirming the Locarno pledge to guarantee peace on the Rhine was made intentionally as a warning to Germany.

This disclosure was made simultaneously with the intimation that the action was likely to have important bearing on the deliberations of the council on Germany's treaty violation.

It was understood that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and the British Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, are convinced despite rising world armaments that international agreements to cut down armaments can be achieved.

The seller was summoned before the commission and under oath stated that he was the seller not only of the $20,000 bonds mentioned but of a further amount of $10,000.

NO INFORMATION

The seller stated he had received no information from any member of the Government or from any other person, but that he had made these short sales on his own judgment as the result of speeches made by the members of the present Government at the time of the Ontario election. He believed there would be some action taken by the present Government in connection with these bonds and as a result sold them short.

"There was, however, very substantial selling of these bonds as the result of the speeches made in the Legislature and the Attorney-General's series of broadcasts," the commissioner reported.

ANSWERS TO CHARGE OF STREWING TACKS

NEW YORK, April 15 (CP).—Mrs. Sylvia Ullrich, forty-five, was brought into court today to answer to the charge she is the person who has been strewing tacks on St. Nicholas Avenue for the last year and a half, causing an epidemic of blowouts. She was released under $500 bail for further hearing.

Germany Refuses to Return Prisoner to Jurisdiction of Swiss

Declare Jacob, Alias Salomon, Is Traitor of Deep-est Dye Who Must Face the Results of Criminal Procedure Begun Long Ago

BERLIN, April 15 (CP-Havas).—Germany, in a note to Switzerland today, branded Berthold Jacob as "a traitor of the worst kind," and said it could not return him to Swiss jurisdiction, as Switzerland had asked.

Jacob, whose real name is Salomon, is now held in a prison camp, facing charges of treason. The extreme penalty for treason is death.

Answering Swiss charges, that Jacob had been kidnapped with the aid of Reich officials, the German note declared there was no evidence that German officials had been connected in any way with the kidnapping.

DOCUMENTS RECEIVED

"The Swiss Government sent to the German Government documents relative to the events which occurred in Switzerland immediately preceding the arrest of Salomon (Jacob)," said the note. "Among these there figure principally the declarations of a German subject, Dr. Hans Wesemann, who was arrested in Switzerland for having participated in the affair."

"Wesemann declared he lured Salomon from Strasbourg to Basel and made him believe he would procure a false passport for him, and thus, by a ruse, made him cross the German frontier in an automobile with other persons. On the basis of this information the German authorities carried out a thorough investigation."

GAVE NO INSTRUCTIONS

"This investigation does not permit the conclusion that German officials had been associated, directly or indirectly, in the events which took place on Swiss territory. German officials gave no instructions to Hans Wesemann nor to his accomplices."

"From Germany now it is impossible to see with certainty the motives which determined Wesemann's actions and those of his accomplices. Wesemann had a dubious past and lived abroad in recent years without a regular profession and apparently occupied himself with anti-German propaganda."

In conclusion, it said, "Since Salomon fell under German jurisdiction without any intervention on the part of German officials, and since he is a traitor of the worst kind, condemned on many occasions, the German laws must be left to follow their course in the criminal procedure begun a long time ago."

GOVERNOR BLAMED

BERLIN, April 15 (AP).—Astonishment was expressed in semi-official sources tonight that the Warsaw Government did not move to halt Polish bitterness against Germans in the Polish Corridor, since the countries have "a treaty of friendship."

Blame for the anti-German demonstrations was placed here on Michael Gracinski, Governor of Upper Silesia, who was accused of backing a movement against German schools.

GOVERNOR BLAMED

BERLIN, April 15 (AP).—Astonishment was expressed in semi-official sources tonight that the Warsaw Government did not move to halt Polish bitterness against Germans in the Polish Corridor, since the countries have "a treaty of friendship."

Blame for the anti-German demonstrations was placed here on Michael Gracinski, Governor of Upper Silesia, who was accused of backing a movement against German schools.

Promotion System In Civil Service Is Strongly Criticized

Commission Urges Compensation Be Given When Employee Asked to Assume More Difficult and Responsible Duties in Governmental Work

OTTAWA, April 15 (CP).—Promotion conditions within the Civil Service are unsatisfactory, the annual report of the Civil Service Commission, tabled today in the House of Commons, says. Last year there were ninety-four promotions only, while 235 civil servants were raised to acting rank only.

"This is eminently unsatisfactory," says the report.

"In the opinion of the commission, the small economies which are rendered possible by the procedure in vogue in no way compensate for the dissatisfaction and unrest which the policy has caused throughout the service."

SHOULD BE COMPENSATED

"The commission believes that when an employee is required to assume the duties of a position more difficult and responsible than that which he has occupied, the necessity for the position having been investigated and established, it is sound employment practice that he should receive the compensation attached to it, and urges that such a policy be again adopted."

Last year there were 22,000 applications for positions in the civil service, the report said.

THOUSANDS EXAMINED

A total of 12,400 were examined. Of the appointments made, forty-two were permanent and 2,333 temporary. Forty males, of which twenty-three were ex-servicemen, were placed in permanent positions, while of the 1,879 given temporary employment, 609 were veterans.

DOCTOR WAGING GALLANT FIGHT

Pneumonia Claims One Victim as Dawson Physician Carries on Short-Handed

DAWSON, Y.T., April 15 (CP).—Dawson tonight counted one death from pneumonia, as the city's lone physician, Dr. Herbert Nunn, fought to avert a spread of the disease in the wake of an epidemic of measles and influenza, which developed last week. Schools, churches and theatres are closed, and one-half of the population has to carry on public services while the other half is quarantined.

Carl Marsh, fifty-year-old miner, died last night from double pneumonia shortly after arriving from Blackfish Creek.

PEAK IS REACHED

With no new cases of measles reported over the week-end, that epidemic was believed to have reached its peak, but several cases of pneumonia have developed among influenza patients. With the one exception, however, they have not proved to be serious.

Meanwhile, Dr. Nunn is being assisted by volunteer nurses who have taken the places of the regular hospital staff, most of whom are down with measles or flu. In addition to the epidemics, the doctor has had a number of major accident and maternity cases to handle.

New Regulations For B.C. Motors

British Columbia motor regulations were re-drafted by the Government yesterday in some 7,000 words. The revision was explained by officials of the motor licence branch to include a few minor changes, by virtue of amendments to the Motor Vehicles Act.

Motorists hereafter must not carry red reflectors on the front of their cars. Short permits to move unlicensed cars from a dock to a garage, or from one home to another, will be made available under the new regulations, on payment of a nominal fee.

REVOLVING GUARANTEE

Province Extends Fresh Guarantee to White Pine Lumber Company

Acting under the Department of Industries, the Government yesterday extended a Provincial guarantee on a bank loan of $9,800 to the White Pine Lumber Company, of Nakusp, approving of the re-borrowing of $3,223 of the sum that had been repaid to the bank since July last year.

The initial guarantee was one of three made last year by the Department of Industries, covering bank loans to the extent of $20,000 to private industry.

One guarantee was for the processing of Royal Anne cherries in the Interior, and another for a fruit and vegetable cannery on Vancouver Island.

HEARS CHARGES FROM STRIKERS

Commission Told of Discrimination and Alleged Profiteering

VANCOUVER, April 15 (CP).—Complaints of discrimination by camp foremen and alleged profiteering by food contractors were heard today by the Royal Commission investigating conditions in British Columbia relief camps. The commission resumed hearings here after spending ten days visiting camps in the Fraser Valley and Fraser Canyon districts.

In addition, witnesses aired a number of private grievances. Today's evidence came from some of the 1,400 strikers who walked out of camps throughout the province last week in protest against alleged unfair conditions.

A half-dozen men charged the foreman of one camp with excessive drunkenness and said he had threatened to discharge men because they refused to lend him money with which to buy liquor.

"HOME BREW" MADE

Witnesses from other camps said wine and "home brew" were produced near the camps with the knowledge, and in one case, the co-operation, of the camp foreman.

A man who said he had cooked at one of the camp group headquarters, swore that contractors were supplied beef of an age far past the specified limit. He said that the eggs were far from fresh.

Another witness, a storeman, declared that supplies were often unfit for use, but had to be used because of the difficulty in getting authority to send them back to the contractor.

TO DISCUSS PLAN FOR PROSPERITY

Arrangements Made to Hold Big Mass Meeting at Brentwood on Wednesday

Arrangements have been completed for a big meeting at Brentwood on Wednesday, under the auspices of the Saanich Board of Trade, to discuss tourist trade. Reeve William Groun, Norman W. Whittaker, M.P., and T. H. Bell, general secretary of the Tourist Development Association of Victoria and Vancouver Island, will be the principal speakers.

In addition to the addresses, a fine programme has been arranged for the evening. This will include a showing of motion pictures depicting the marvelous scenery of the Island. This has been arranged by courtesy of the Publicity Bureau.

Officials of the board of trade are sparing no pains to make the gathering one of the most successful held in years.

GREAT TOURIST YEAR FOR COAST PREDICTED

Publicity and tourist bureaus situated up and down the Pacific Coast are viewing the coming Summer with high expectations for tourist travel, according to Miss Caroline Mendell, manager of the promotion department of the "Where-to-Go-Bureau" in Seattle, who is visiting at the Dominion Hotel here.

This year will see the greatest tourist season yet experienced by the Pacific Coast, she said. The San Diego Exposition this Summer is expected to draw thousands of visitors from all parts of the United States and Canada, many of whom will be rerouted home through the Pacific Northwest.

Pleased at Work On Big Bend Road In Federal Plans

HON. F. M. MacPherson expressed pleasure yesterday at intimation of renewed Federal appropriation for work on the Big Bend route, one of three trans-provincial highways in British Columbia. East of the Bend, the grade is through, but the roadway not completed. West of the Bend there is a gap of about forty miles to the point where British Columbia construction has been taking place. A bridge will be necessary at Big Bend, the minister stated.

INSPECTIONAL AREAS SET UP

Province Divided Into Seven Districts Under Mines Regulation Act

Instead of a chief inspector and seven inspectors at large, the B.C. Department of Mines has now divided the province into seven mining inspectional districts, with main headquarters at Victoria and district headquarters in each area, according to regulations ratified yesterday under the Metalliferous Mines Regulation Act. There will be no change in staff, it was announced.

No. 1 Coast District will take in Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Yale, Quatsino, Clayoquot, Alberni and the Mainland part of the Nanaimo mineral district, with headquarters at Victoria.

SECOND ISLAND DISTRICT The rest of Vancouver Island and the Nanaimo mineral district outside of the Mainland, falls into No. 2 Coast District, with headquarters at Nanaimo.

In addition there will be the Northern Interior District, with headquarters at Lillooet; Southern Interior District, with headquarters at Princeton; West Kootenay District, with headquarters at Fernie; East Kootenay District, with headquarters also at Fernie, and the Northern District, with headquarters at Prince Rupert.

The chief inspector and seven district inspectors already in the service will carry on, it was said.

CHOIR PRESENTS FAMOUS CANTATA

Fairfield United Church Choral Group Renders Stainer's Well-Known "Crucifixion"

Rendering of Stainer's well-known cantata, "The Crucifixion," by the Fairfield United Church augmented choir Sunday afternoon was an outstanding success. Despite the glorious weather that prevailed attracting many outdoors, there was a large attendance.

Both in the garden passages, which portray the Gethsemane scene and the more robust passages, such as those depicting the terror that gripped the hearts of the populace when a foreboding darkness fell on the land as Christ uttered His triumphant last words, the choir, under the leadership of Cyril C. Warren, showed splendid restraint.

They caught admirably the mysticism that prevails throughout the entire cantata, while the soloists, A. W. Lucking, Robert Husband, J. C. Warren and E. Anderson, gave commendable interpretations of their parts.

Prior to the cantata, Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry, B.A., gave a brief outline of the work. Mr. Warren presided at the console of the organ, and Miss Isabelle Pike was assistant accompanist.

The cantata will be repeated again over the air at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Estimating within an eighth of an ounce of the correct weight of an assortment of wire nails which formed the second of a series of estimating contests arranged by David Spencer Ltd., six persons hold first place cards, and an elimination will be held to determine the winner of the $500 cash prize or a return trip to England.

The total weight of the nails was announced yesterday by the judges of the contest as 108 pounds 8-8 ounces, and the following persons estimated 108 pounds and 3 ounces: Miss Doris Hiberson, 853 Byng Street; Mrs. W. Caley, 610 Pine Street; Miss L. Seed, 3440 Davidson Street; H. L. Wood, Saanichton; Miss Pauline Harle, R.R. No. 1, and E. Middleton, 432 Gorge Road. Over 80,000 estimates were placed.

LOG METHOD IS EXAMINED

B.C. Forestry Officials Declare Open Mind on Selective Operations

Selective logging is still in the experimental stage, but will bear watching with a view to limited use under certain conditions, British Columbia Forest Branch officials said yesterday on return from a ten-day tour of Washington and Oregon camps. Hon. A. W. Gray, Minister of Lands, and P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester, were in the party.

"Personally, I believe selective logging is still in the experimental stage. There are a number of problems that may take ten years to determine, such as slash disposal, windfalls, sun scald and the question of regeneration," Mr. Caverhill said.

USES LIMITED

"Tractor logging will not work on steep rocky hillsides. It has certain economic merits, but its general application in British Columbia could not be effected at present. Any application of the method in British Columbia would have to be determined after a close study of the topography, general soil conditions, the character and size of the timber, and facilities for transportation, while the precise benefits could only be determined after observation for a number of years."

"We are interested and believe the experiments may lead to something in limited areas. We will continue to watch them," Mr. Caverhill concluded.

SAW OPERATIONS

The British Columbia forestry party visited Seattle, Portland, Salem and two actual camps at Sillcoos Lake and near Astoria, where the Crown Willamette interests are operating both high-lead and tractor logging. At Sillcoos Lake the party saw selective logging under nearly ideal conditions, in connection with the perpetuation of veneer stock. At a camp south of Astoria, the party watched "spot" operations in a mixed stand.

Next week, tests being made by the Comox Logging & Railway Company at Comox Lake are to be examined. Buck & Turner, operating at Nanaimo, have also been in touch with the branch during the last eighteen months.

Mr. Gray did not speak on the question, referring queries to the chief forester, upon his return.

Teddy Carveth Arrested With Stolen Goods as He Was Boarding Steamer

Teddy Carveth pleaded guilty in the city police court yesterday to having possession of 145 pairs of ladies' stockings, knowing them to be stolen. He was not sentenced, pending further investigation with regard to stolen goods.

The stockings were taken from the store of Angus Campbell & Company, Limited, on Saturday night, after closing time. Early Sunday the janitor found the store had been broken into and reported the fact to the police.

The accused was arrested as he was boarding the steamer for Vancouver, on Sunday night.

In court yesterday he elected summary trial before the police magistrate and pleaded guilty to the offence.

Motorcycle Officer and Taxi Driver Both Wrong

VANCOUVER, April 15 (CP).—A motorcycle policeman overtook a speeding taxi on Granville Street, motioned the driver to the curb and demanded what all the hurry was about.

"I'm taking this lady to Grace (Maternity) Hospital," said the driver, motioning to a young lady who sat tensely in the back seat, clutching a bundle of baby clothes. Without another word, the officer swung his machine ahead, opened the siren and escorted the taxi to the hospital portal.

To the men's amazement, the young lady leaped from the car, hurried into the hospital and returned in a few moments without the baby garments. She was a school nurse who had taken cast-off baby clothes where they would do the most good.

THE STRESA CONFERENCE

The official statements of the results of the Stresa Conference give reason for optimism, inasmuch as a good deal of ground was covered and decisions reached calculated to quiet some of the uneasiness that prevails in Europe. The conference grew out of German violation of the Treaty of Versailles by her putting into effect a policy of rearmament. That issue remains unsettled, and at Stresa the three Powers—Great Britain, France and Italy—decided to protest against the treaty violation at a meeting of the Council of the League of Nations. No decision was reached as to any other course of action to be taken. As far as the conference went it reached complete agreement on the matters discussed, one of the most important of which was an air security pact involving action by the three Powers against an aggressor in Western Europe. Germany has offered to be a partner with other Powers in a non-aggression Eastern Pact, provided she is not called upon for military assistance. It is not told what was done in this regard, which presumably is a matter for further discussion. The conference approved a measure of rearmament for Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria. While these proposals have been approved in principle there does not seem to be any hard and fast arrangement to implement them as yet. Some of them are contingent on developments and future conversations. The point is, however, the co-operation of the three Powers concerned for peaceful purposes. In the discussions of the League of Nations they will present a united front on the matters mentioned, and, outside the League, they afford assurance that difficulties, or at least some of them, now confronting Europe will be assuaged. The old method of a concert of the Powers guaranteeing peace has been reverted to, and that way has, on many occasions in the past, proved its usefulness.

DICKENS IN THE PICTURES

Two of Dickens' stories have recently been presented on the screen in Victoria, Copperfield and Great Expectations, the former being received by the public with greater favor than the latter for reasons which it may be worth while to mention briefly. There are, of course, some difficult problems to solve and obstacles to surmount in translating the language of the novelist's printed page into the medium of the talking and moving picture. The public is apt to demand, and is justified in demanding, that the screen shall present the chief characters and their interactions, the outstanding episodes and events, and the development of the plot in accordance with the original work as far as possible, all allowances having been made for the necessary condensation of the material and the compression of the events of months and even years into a few hours. Naturally there must be many omissions, careful selection, and much condensation, and great skill and judgment are required. Those who saw both of these pictures will probably agree that Copperfield was much the better of the two, although there may be some difference of opinion as to which is inherently the greater novel. Great Expectations was among the last of the great series of Dickens novels and may be regarded as a product of his matured genius, if genius is more mature at one time than another. It appeared in 1860 and was followed only by Our Mutual Friend and the unfinished Edwin Drood. The characters portrayed in Great Expectations are less widely known and not so often spoken of as those in Copperfield. Micawber, Uriah Heep, and Peggotty are more popular than Joe Gargery, Trabs Boy, and the Convict. The Copperfield story was presented on the screen in its integrity, with little or no violence done to the original tale and almost without exception the acting was flawless. Unfortunately there were some defects in the other picture. The acting, particularly that of the Convict, was exceedingly good. The early Victorian ballroom scene was beautifully done. The costumes and manners were, no doubt, accurately represented. The picture, however, did not do justice to the book. Joe Gargery, one of the most admirable and lovable figures in the whole Dickens gallery, is omitted altogether. Trabs Boy, also, who would have contributed a much-needed comic element, did not appear. The absence of Pumblechook is perhaps no serious loss, but the fine character of Biddy should not have been omitted. Taking the two pictures together, the boy David, Mr. Micawber, the Peggottys, Betsey Trotwood and the returned Convict won every heart.

STRAW VOTES

There is a somewhat deep-rooted belief in the public mind that straw votes show the way the political wind is blowing. This is indicated by the interest shown in the desire of so many to register their attitude on any given subject at any time. Straw votes are multiplying, and one of the latest has been that of The London Morning Post on a series of thirteen questions covering politics, economics, unemployment, Imperial and foreign policy and other subjects. The result gives viewpoints entertained by some 45,000 persons who filled in the voting papers.

There were 12,479 in favor of the continuance of the National Government in its present form and 28,929 opposed, while 27,699 favored a reconstructed National Government as against 12,883 who were against this course. The return to the party system in Great Britain was opposed by a majority of two to one, and for the leadership of the Conservative Party, Mr. Neville Chamberlain headed the poll with Mr. Stanley Baldwin a close second. The limitation of the Cabinet to a small number of Ministers not tied to departmental duties secured approval from 31,387 and was opposed by 6,631, while reform of the House of Lords was favored by 27,662 and opposed by 10,485.

There was a very definite trend of opinion in favor of an Economic Council representative of the best brains of industry and finance to assist Parliament in national development. The return to the gold standard, when practicable, was favored by 28,159 and opposed by 5,843. In the matter of unemployment the plans favored were productive public works, land settlement schemes and Government loans to aid industries. In Imperial matters the policy of Empire free trade was favored by 20,667 and opposed by 12,676. A Customs Union with Crown Colonies and Protectorates was overwhelmingly approved, as was a more energetic Empire migration policy. The Government of India Bill in its present form was opposed by a vote of 31,494 to 6,857 who approved.

In foreign politics reliance on the League of Nations to prevent war was favored by 13,890 and opposed by 27,102, while increasing defenses in all branches to prevent war was approved by 37,243 and opposed by 4,772. There was a majority against the limitation of naval strength by treaty and against isolation from continental alliances. A majority was given against raising the school age, in favor of state lotteries for charitable and humanitarian purposes and in favor of broadcasting as now controlled in Great Britain. Two of the most pertinent questions asked were, "Are you in favor of more State control of the conduct of the individual?" This was answered in the negative by 35,383 votes to 3,852. The other question, "Are you in favor of less State control of the conduct of the individual?" was answered in the affirmative by 29,422 votes to 7,584.

Opinion on the problems of the time is working, not only paradoxically but at cross purposes. The demand from the verbose element of mankind is for more leisure, and hence shorter working hours. The experience of all history is that financial troubles are surmounted by working harder, not less. Under any dispensation it is self-reliance that counts and thrift that is rewarded.

THE MYSTERY

Now comes the mystery of the year. When warm the sunlight lies upon the hill. Each wailing snowbank sends its infant rill. Again its questing course adown the near. Small hollows, pigmy valleys, till. Some bank or boulder, like a mountain Fate, Turns it aside, as nature's engineer. To swell, with other streams, an April spate, Or, from some tinkling ice-edged bay or mere, Beneath the willowy wind-melodies It follows the far calling of wide seas.

Now the rather crocus that but yesterday No skill of man could fashion or revive, Thrusts its red stem through sodden leaves alive. To prove that not eternal is decay. Upward a myriad emerald spear-heads drive, With open buds is every ash twig bowed. The hazel flaunts its tassels, silver gray. Against the white flocks of wind-driven cloud The singing pines in vibrant shyness essay To tell mankind that time and life are one And spring eternal as the Springtime sun.

—John Gray.

MR. JOHN BUCHAN

Mr. John Buchan is a very unusual man. There has never been anything spectacular about his advancement, but somehow when he appears again and again in a new important position where no one expects him to appear, "What an admirable appointment!" It has been said that an Edinburgh man is the most responsible of God's creatures, and although Mr. Buchan comes from Glasgow he combines all the best Scottish qualities. And while he has brilliantly excelled in several fields he has never lost his responsibility to whatever job lies before him.—Manchester Guardian.

A good judge should never boast of his power, because he can do nothing but what he can do justly; he is not the master, but the minister of the law. Authority without virtue is a very dangerous state.—Thomas Wilson.

Some kind of pace may be got out of the veriest lode by the near prospect of oats; but the thoroughbred has the spur in his blood.—Lowell.

Note and Comment

E. R. R. D.

It fares the land, to hastening a great day,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay,
A breath can make them as a breath has made,
When a bold peasant, a country's pride,
Whose name is lost, and whose name never be supplied.

—Goldsmith.

One of the weaknesses of human nature is that it is prone to make mistakes. People who write letters to the Editor have been known to state that even editors are not infallible in their expressed opinions. When mistakes are made, penalties are attached to them. Even the lords of creation cannot evade the consequences of their errors of judgment. There have been descriptions printed in the papers of devastating storms in many parts of the Central and Southern States of the American Union. There also have been descriptions of harassing dust storms in the Prairie Provinces of Canada. Those visitations appear more to be dreaded than frigid blizzards, for no houses can be constructed which are proof against the driven particles of fine dust. Habitations may be made snow-proof and nearly wind-proof, but when dust begins to fly before the wind it permeates all barriers. It settles upon food and people have to eat it. It enters the nostrils and the lungs and people have to breathe it. It is destructive to comfort and to health.

Nature cannot be blamed for dust storms. When the continent was in a state of nature there were no dust storms such as there are now. The mistakes of men made them possible. Men made mistakes when they killed off the buffaloes which roamed the plains and ploughed up the buffalo grass which bound the soil together and prevented it from disintegrating and turning into fine dust. Men made a grievous mistake when they attempted to turn a pastoral or range region into grain-growing areas. Nature is a stubborn thing, though an abstraction, and cannot be flouted.

When all the big nations of the world were engaged in war, and millions of men ceased to produce and began to fight, there ensued a tremendous demand for wheat, which at the time was considered the staff of life. When Canadian wheat commanded a high price, and there was a market for it at almost any price, there was a great rush of agriculturists to Western lands which nature had ordained should be pastoral. The lands were settled upon and ploughed up, and for a few years yielded crops of grain which were remunerative to the producers. Now nature, thus flouted or challenged, is taking revenge. The soil, divorced from its natural purposes, is drifting. Drifting is not the proper descriptive word. The surface of the earth is literally being blown away. We are told that it is a sickening thing to feel the earth moving or rolling under one's feet. It must be a nauseating thing to see the earth blowing away before one's eyes and to feel fine particles of earth circulating through the channels of the lungs. The worst of the plagues of Egypt could not have been worse than that. Undoubtedly there are some compensations for living in a land where there is an abundance of moisture.

The story about the menace attached to "upsetting the balances of nature" is an old-told tale, but there is a useful moral attached to it. That moral is that men must accept the consequences of their deeds. The settlers in the Western country have found out that they made a mistake, and they are asking Governments to help them correct it. Governments cannot make rain fall, but they may be able to make some kind of grass grow where buffalo grass grew before. Experiments are going to be made by unsettling lands which never should have been settled by grain growers. Nature in the main is kindly, and may come to the assistance of experimental science in correcting the errors of thoughtless and greedy men. Arboreal wind shields are to be planted and streams dammed for the purpose of forming lakes and creating sources of moisture. What man has done may undo, but the transformation of a made desert into a fruitful land will not be accomplished within the term of three or four crop years. It may be the work of a generation, and it must be a rather costly experiment. But the attempt must be made, for people who have sunk their roots and their all in land are loath to move from one part of the country to another. They simply cannot understand why nature, the universal provider, should desert them and leave them stranded in the midst of a desert.

All other industries of Canada and the United States are going to be given the benefits (or otherwise) of new deals. Certain branches of the great agricultural industry are to be stimulated by special regulatory provisions. Why should not the most depressed sections of agriculture be assisted in its struggles towards recovery? It is not difficult to imagine the feelings of grain growers whose lands in past years have yielded good crops turning into dust and blowing away before their eyes. People engaged in other industries are subjected to no such visitations as that. Nature, if left to her own devices, might cover up and heal the wounds men have inflicted, but the wheels of Nature, like the mills of the gods, turn slowly. Parliament, when it voted unanimously that something must be done for agriculture, expressed the unanimous views of the people of the country.

C.C.F. CONVENTION
Sir,—In connection with the report of the meeting of C.C.F. members on Friday evening, the statement that Don Smith had been officially nominated previously is entirely incorrect.

No choice of a candidate had been made, the convention having been postponed. The withdrawal of certain nominees from the list left only two names before the local C.C.F. and in order to clarify the situation the meeting on Friday decided that the best course would be to reopen nominations until April 26. The report that a candidate had been previously nominated is completely without foundation. The situation at present is that Don Smith and Frank Roberts are nominated and if any clubs should wish to add further names to the list they have until April 26 to do so. The official date of the convention is on or before May 10.

BRITISH PROTECTION

Sir,—With reference to Mr. A. D. Martin's letter, published in The Colonist of April 7:

Paragraph one I do not agree with at all. I am quite sure if the results of the Great War had gone against Great Britain, Canada would have found herself in a far different position than she is today. Every one of us, including Mr. Martin himself, would be vassals to a foreign country instead of enjoying British freedom.

Paragraph two is just as unsound. If one went to war or a foreign power dared to attack us I am quite sure the United States would not feel it her duty to protect us and would not become involved until her own territory was attacked, just as she did in the Great War, and I think she would be justified in her conclusion. She would not want to drag her people into a war unless to protect herself.

As for paragraph three, it is utter nonsense to state "Great Britain never has protected Canada." If it were not for the British Navy in the war I think we would all be at the bottom of the sea long ere this, or probably not in such a cool, safe place as we have.

BRITISH CITIZENSHIP

Sir,—In The Colonist of April 7, Mr. A. D. Martin states that the Native Sons of Canada are not "in favor of Canada bearing any part of the cost of Imperial defence." He attempts to justify this decision by asserting that "Canada has no enemies" and that Great Britain never has protected Canada or Canadians. As yet this nonsense has not been repudiated by the Native Sons of Canada. Though unreasonable opinions of an individual may be harmless, such opinions if endorsed and promulgated by an organization may mislead many good citizens.

About thirty years ago, in Montevideo, Uruguay, I went with the captain of a British ship to interview the consul. A Canadian sailing vessel had been seized and the crew made prisoners on a charge of seal poaching. The British consul, in accordance with the usual procedure in cases of British seamen in trouble, proceeded to secure the release of the crew and to order the captain of the first British ship sailing North to carry them on a stage of their journey home to Canada.

In those days a jail in Uruguay was not a nice place. If Mr. A. D. Martin, or any other gentleman who endorses his sentiments, had appeared and informed those Canadians that they did not need British protection in a foreign country because "Canada has no enemies," his reception might have been spectacular. And men who sailed the South Atlantic on seal-poaching expeditions were just as independent and quite as able to stand on their own feet as any of the members of the Native Sons of Canada. Anyone who remembers the superior prestige of Great Britain in South America at that time knows that an appeal by Canadian prisoners to an American Consul would have been ridiculous.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of April 16, 1885.)
The Drifted. The rich having arrived and the drifters placed in position, a work of excavating for the extension of the dock commenced yesterday. A large number of men were put to work, no Chinese being employed, though several of the workmen were of that race. The contractors with this class of labor, some of whom were of the Chinese race, were in position and the work is assuming considerable proportions. The contract is evidently in the best of hands, for the work is being prosecuted in an energetic and practical way, and every day adds to the surety of the dock being satisfactorily completed.

The Election. The election for a member of the local House came off yesterday. There was considerable excitement manifested on the streets among public men, but the feeling did not extend to the general body of voters, for out of the usual strength of more than 1,300, only 370 came to the polls. The utmost good humor was displayed by the candidates and their respective agents, and the returning officers' duties were consequently lightened. Several incidents of a highly amusing nature, and others not quite so graceful in character, took place. At the close of the day the returning officer reported the numbers as follows:—
Dr. 281; Williams, 374.

WORK ON ISLAND HIGHWAY SOUGHT

Mayor David Leeming Joins Mayor G. G. McGeer in Urging Ottawa to Act

Mayor David Leeming yesterday supported Mayor G. G. McGeer in an appeal to the Minister of National Defence, Hon. G. R. Stirling, to institute Government work to relieve unemployment on the Island. The Mayor suggested widening and resurfacing the Island Highway.

His telegram read as follows: "Wish to endorse ideas expressed in telegram sent you by Mayor McGeer on April 13. In Victoria, as in Vancouver, strikers held tag day in defiance of a refusal to permit same and against civic by-laws. Works are crying to be done in and around Victoria similarly and relatively in amount to those needed in Vancouver, with complete financial inability to undertake same. Surfacing and widening of Island Highway would result in creation of millions of dollars of new wealth annually on Vancouver Island by development of tourist industry, an industry of vital importance to this Island and the whole Dominion.

"Strongly support Mayor McGeer's suggestion that Federal Government take immediate action similar to that authorized by U.S. Congress. Number of families on relief in Victoria last month only 3 per cent less than twelve months ago. When is Government going to take action to break this deadlock?"

EXCURSIONISTS COME TO COAST

First Bargain Tourists From Prairies Encounter Contrasting Weather

VANCOUVER, April 15. — First fruits of the year's first bargain trip from the Prairies to the Pacific Coast, seven hundred excursionists arrived over Canadian National Railways, Sunday and today. Every inch of space on the trains and in the station was crowded with the new arrivals and their hundreds of friends and relatives on hand to greet them.

Two bus loads of the newcomers left for Victoria and Seattle to complete their journey. A number of the travelers left the train at New Westminster. Although yesterday's arrivals were greeted by the warmest day of the year and bathed with sunshine, today's party detrained amid a drizzling rain. Not one bit downcast by this feature, they contrasted the mild weather with the rigorous climate they had left behind and rejoiced.

DICKENS' PLAYS WELL PRODUCED

Members of Local Society Enjoy Interesting Evening With Famous Author

While a great variance of opinion as to the relative merit of the individual actors in the recently-seen film versions of "David Copperfield" and "Great Expectations" was found among the members of the Victoria Dickens Club in meeting last night, the consensus of opinion was that both pictures were on the whole excellent and very well worth seeing.

The programme last night was of pleasantly varied character, one of the surprises being the visit from T. Goodland, a member of the London branch of the society, who gave a short description of the centenary celebration in Milan, Italy, of the Pickwickians' ride to Rochester.

OTHERS CONTRIBUTING

Among others who contributed to the programme was A. W. Arnup, who gave a realistic presentation of the famous address of Sergeant Buzzfuzz to the jury in the case of Pickwick vs. Bardell. This was done in costume, with clerical wig, cap and gown. Capt. W. Ord, another able reader, gave a reading from the "Pickwick Papers."—Sam Wellers' visit to the Marquis of Granby at Dorking, where he encountered his mother-in-law for the first time. This, also, was very well done. Miss E. Pearson gave, in the form of a recitation from "Pickwick Papers," and Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, the secretary, added another reading from the same volume.

Several other items of interest were crowded into the evening. Mrs. Penhew gave a digest of an article that had recently appeared in the English magazine, John Bull, concerning the proposed removal of Charles Dickens' remains from Westminster Abbey to Rochester, a matter which had been settled eventually by the decision to leave the present tomb undisturbed.

PICNIC PLANNED

Plans for a picnic to be held on June 22 at the Experimental Farm, were discussed. A new member, William Marchant, formerly the mayor of Victoria, was welcomed, and announcement was made that "The Old Curiosity Shop" was now

Canadian Policyholders or Their Beneficiaries have Received

$800,000,000 IN THE PAST FIVE YEARS

Through their Life Insurance Savings

MORE than $160,000,000 a year—that is the sum which Canadian policyholders or their beneficiaries have received on the average, during the past five years, from Life Insurance companies in Canada. In the next five years these policyholders will receive an even larger amount.

The large payments of Life Insurance benefits, made year by year, are the result of self-sacrifice on the part of 3,500,000 Canadians—thrifty citizens who have brought their savings together in Life Insurance funds, so that they and their families would have necessary financial security for the future.

Through the distribution of Life Insurance funds, the burdens of the widows and fatherless are eased—children are educated—independence is secured for old age—families are assisted in times of financial stress.

From the national standpoint, these citizens who have joined together to provide for their own financial future through Life Insurance, have performed a public duty. Their Life Insurance savings have lessened the number of people on public relief. And the investment of their savings in Life Insurance has provided working capital for Dominion and Provincial Governments, Canadian cities and municipalities, utilities and industries, farms and homes.

In the future as in the past, Life Insurance will continue to be the "Guardian of Canadian Homes".

ASSUMPTION WINS, 46-38Windsor Takes First Game of Eastern Canada Basketball Play-Offs

WINDSOR, Ont., April 15 (CP).—Assumption College Purples broke away on the right foot in their challenge for the Eastern Canada basketball title, when they outscored the strong Notre Dame de Grace quintette, of Montreal, 46-38, in the first of a two-out-of-three-game series here tonight. The second game is scheduled for tomorrow night, and a third, if necessary, on Wednesday.

Notre Dame, weakened by the absence of their star forward, Len Hutton, battled the Purples right from the opening whistle and were always within hailing distance of their formidable rivals. The score at half time was 22-15 for Assumption.

Big guns in the Ontario champions' victory were "Moose" Rogin, rugged centre, and Captain "Scribbly" Aitchison, whose deadly shooting of field goals earned him the plaudits of the 2,000 or more present.

Standing out for the Montreals and sparkling, despite the defeat, were Buster "Red" Allen and Lou Newton, of football fame, regular forwards of the visitors.

DETROIT TAKES DECIDING GAMEDefeats Vancouver, 4-3, in Final Hockey Fixture, After Overtime

VANCOUVER, April 15 (CP).—Hally Kilrea's sliding shot from the corner slapped into Goalie Johnny Clark's stick and was deflected into the net to give Detroit Olympics a 4-3 overtime victory over Vancouver Lions in the fifth and deciding game of their "little world series."

Kilrea's deciding counter came after just under six minutes of the extra session had been played. In a final but futile gesture Guy Patrick pulled off his goalie and sent six forwards on the ice in an effort to knot the count again, but for the two minutes before the final bell Normie Smith in the Olympics' goal was unbeatable.

Lions started off impressively, rattling in three goals in the first period, but the Olympics reversed the procedure in the middle session to count a like number and tie the score. The third period was scoreless.

SMITH SCORES TWO
Clint Smith counted two of Lions' scores, taking a pass from Bobby Kirk for the first and scoring unassisted before the end of the initial session after Gordon McFarlane sandwiched in a goal on an assist from Tip O'Neill.

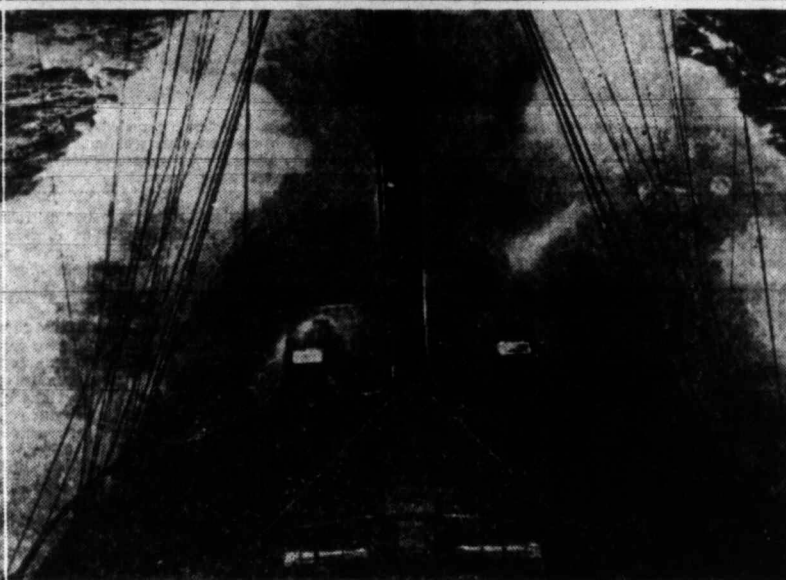

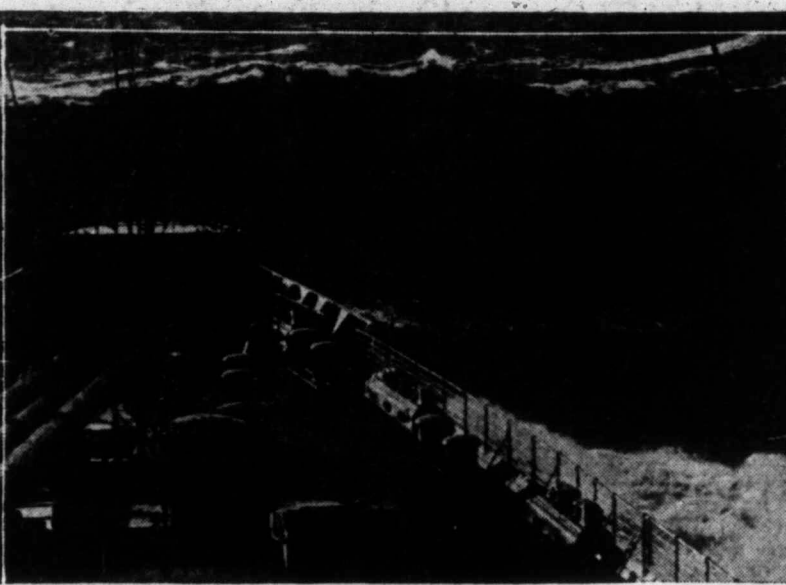

Olympics turned on the pressure in the second frame to duplicate Vancouver's opening scoring burst. Tommy Anderson and Des Roche teamed up to beat the Vancouver defence, then slid the disc to Conny King, who whipped in Olympics' first goal near mid-period. "Yip" Foster and Ron Moffat combined for the second, a minute later with Foster taking the pass. Williams notched the tying marker three minutes later on a double assist from Orrville Roulston and Des Roche.

Choral Union Ends Season By Rehearsal

The Victoria Choral Union held its last rehearsal of the season at the Memorial Hall on Friday evening. Immediately afterwards the members adjourned to the gymnasium and enjoyed a friendly get-together and social time. Games and dancing were indulged in, and refreshments were served to the more than 100 who attended.

The president, Herbert Kent, said the gathering was held so that the members might have the opportunity of meeting each other in the spirit of good-fellowship in order to get better acquainted and to extend the very best and warmest wishes to Stanley Bulley, who will shortly leave for an extended visit to England. Mr. Bulley outlined what his proposed activities would be while he was away, showing that his holiday would not be entirely free from musical work.

Mr. Kent mentioned with what satisfaction he had sung in the "Messiah" under the conductorship of Mr. Bulley and his remarks were endorsed by G. Jennings Burnett, and heartily concurred in by the members present. The evening came to an end with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Rehearsals will not be held again until early in September, when Brahms' "Requiem" and the "Messiah" will be taken up, and it is fully expected by the committee that the choir will then number 200 voices.

The Easter banquet will be held tonight by the C.G.I.T. Leaders' Council, commencing at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Nellie McClung will be the guest speaker.

Orders May Be Granted

LONDON, April 15 (CP).—It is understood a new honors order for women, or at least their admission to another of the existing orders, is under consideration in court circles in connection with the Jubilee celebrations.

At present women may enter only the Order of the Companionship of Honor and the Orders of the British Empire and Crown of India. The Companionship honor is limited to a total of fifty, and the Crown of India is reserved for recognition of women's work in India, so far as women are concerned.

The Queen is the only woman holding the Order of the Garter, but in mediaeval times it was usual for several women members of the Royal family to be included.

The Royal Victorian Order, which is bestowed in recognition of personal service to the King and members of the Royal house, might possibly be enlarged to include women.

Y.W.C.A. Notes

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Y.W.C.A., a report was given on the household training course now in session. Over fifty girls had applied for the course. As the class will accommodate only twenty-five, it was necessary to select from the applicants. Miss Esther Latimer, instructor of the course, was present and met members of the board.

It was announced that the annual membership tea would be held on Friday, May 3, from 3 to 6 p.m. The girls' work committee reported that a musical evening would be held at the home of Miss Agnes Spencer on May 1, when the Schubert Club would present a programme.

The Canadian convention of the Y.W.C.A. to be held in Ottawa, June 3 to 9, was discussed.

DANCING RECITAL WILL BE PRESENTED APRIL 27

Lovers of classical and toe-ballet dancing are looking forward with great interest to the display to be given at the Shrine Hall on April 27 by Dorothy Cox's Western School of Dancing.

One of the entrancing features of this display will be the weaving of the various dances into little "playlets," a method which, while giving the pupils full scope to interpret their various dancing numbers, also gives them an opportunity to exhibit their dramatic sense and possibilities. The stage setting of the various playlets and the zest with which the pupils enter into and enjoy their dancing in this environment will appeal tremendously to dramatic-loving Victorians.

This method, already much in vogue in Great Britain, tends to enhance the nerve and liveliness of the various dance numbers so interpreted.

METCHOSIN CLUB PARTY

A successful bridge party took place on Friday evening at "Rosedale," the home of Capt. and Mrs. R. S. Johnson, Metchoshin, under the auspices of Metchoshin Tennis Club. There were eleven tables, and the prizes went to Mrs. M. Milne, "Lamorna," and Mr. E. Lequesne, of Langford. The consolation prize was awarded to Rev. H. M. Bolton. At the close of the games, supper was served, convened by Miss Margaret Bell, assisted by Mrs. McCraith, Miss Valerie Ellwood and Miss Kathie Milne. During the evening Mr. Bolton tendered Capt. and Mrs. Johnson a hearty vote of thanks for the use of their house for the occasion.

Spectacular Jumping Is Feature of Horse Show

The programme drawn up for the Spring Horse Show on Wednesday, April 24, promises to be even more spectacular than those previously held at the Willows.

The numbers include children's jumping teams (a request number); musical chairs, which always provoke a good deal of merriment and excitement; a dispatch race by a number of housemen from various service clubs, and which includes four horses, four bicycles and four wheelbarrows, as well as four runners; the children's riding class; exhibition jumping; team jumping; jumping by Chummy Carley over a long jump and picket fence, which he does bareback; a potato race, and a thrilling exhibition of jumping by the horse, Sir Wildred, over four bars and two men, then over the Arabian horse, Adornad, shown for the first time in Canada.

There will be three events of the new game, Nolo, which is a combination of polo and lacrosse, and one of the best and fastest teams will be here from Tacoma, to compete with the Victoria team for the challenge cup.

MUSICAL RIDE

The musical ride will open the show and taking part in this are the following: Mrs. W. E. M. Mitchell, Mrs. G. Macdonald, Mrs. Sturdy, Mrs. N. Van der Vliet, Mrs. Parris, Mrs. E. Williamson, Mrs. Hartley, Mrs. J. E. Mathews, Mrs. J. Macallan, Mrs. D. B. Carley, Miss Margaret Whyte, Miss Betty O'Brien, Miss Marion Bullock-Webster, Miss Gladys Rennie, Miss V. Rennie, Miss V. King Triumphant Will Be Sung by Emmanuel Choir

The choir of the Emmanuel Baptist Church, under the direction of W. H. Muncy, will give Ernest A. Dicks' sacred cantata, "King Triumphant," on Good Friday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. The story depicts in colorful and stirring music various outstanding incidents in the life of Our Lord from His birth to His ascension. It is divided into six parts.

The cantata opens with the promises of God to comfort His people by the gift of His Son, Jesus Christ, so that heaven and earth may be at peace. This is followed by the temptation during the forty days and forty nights, which leads to the eternal Easterday.

Various incidents of Christ's ministry, such as the calming of the waters, the healing of the leper and the broken-hearted, lead up to the crucifixion in which the common people hear Him gladly, until He is led forth to die, and closing with the resurrection and ascension, glorifying the holiness of God, and ending on a triumphant note with a fine Alleluia chorus.

The theme is well suited to an Easter service. The choir will be assisted by Miss May Zala, soprano; Mrs. George Erickson, contralto; M. Maynard, baritone, and Harold Parfitt, narrator, who will render the solos.

Blessing Of Palms Observed

The interesting ceremony of "The Blessing of the Palms" took place at St. Andrew's Cathedral on Sunday morning, Rt. Rev. J. H. MacDonald, Bishop of Victoria, and a number of other clergy taking part in the rites.

Palms were distributed to the congregation as they came to the altar rail, after which a procession of the clergy and Sanctuary boys took place, passing through the Cathedral and moving round the outside of the edifice. In the meantime a few antiphons were sung, being followed by the entry of the procession into the church once more, this latter part of the ceremony symbolizing the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem.

Immediately thereafter, the Pontifical High Mass was celebrated, the celebrant being the Bishop, and assisting priests being as follows: Rev. J. Gaudette; Deacon of the Mass, Rev. C. T. Albury; sub-Deacon, Rev. J. Sobry; Deacons of the Throne, Rev. John Osborne and Rev. N. Verbeke.

CHAPTER XXIV

"Oh, I have," Mrs. Mingle said. "I have all sorts of things that were Barry's." She turned to a tall cabinet and took out a little blue kid shoe.

"Barry's first shoes," she said proudly. "He threw the other one at the puppy, who tore it to pieces. So I kept this one for a memento, like you read about in the poems."

"Yes, very nice. What mementoes have you of Barry's later days, this last year, say?"

"Not much. Oh, here's a tie Miss Jane gave him." She held out a dark magenta affair of nondescript pattern. "He brought it in here to me, and he said, 'Ming, here's a tie Miss Holt just gave me. But it's a bit too old for a lad of my tender years. You keep it for me till I'm about seventy, and then give it back.' He joked like that, Mr. Barry did, and too, sir, you can see yourself it's a tie for an old gentleman. But I saved it."

"He didn't approve of Miss Holt's taste, then?"

"As you see. Now, these old things, Mr. Dan and Mr. Pat brought from the heathen places. The best and most valuable ones they kept in Barry's museum, as they called it."

"I see. Let me look at that gold and silver piece, will you?"

Ming took the thing from its shell and handed it to him. It was an ornament of some sort, and was shaped a little like a spoon with a long handle. The bowl of the spoon set on like a ladle, was about the size of a saucer. The handle was hexagonal and formed of alternating sections of gold and silver.

"I don't know what that is," Ming said. "Nobody ever told me. 'It is a hairpin,' Stone explained. 'It is of a sort worn by natives of the Liu-Kiu Islands, a small archipelago near Formosa. Who gave you this?'"

"It was in the lot that they all said didn't belong in the museum, and that I could have them. You say this is a hairpin? It doesn't look like one."

Dan chanced to come by at that moment. "Just how is this thing used, Mr. Wayne?" Stone asked him.

"I'm not sure, Pat will know. Let's ask him."

Dan led the way to Pat's rooms in the opposite corner of the house. They found him sitting by a window, a newspaper on the floor beside him, and a look of utter sadness on his face as he looked up to greet them.

"Oh, come in," he said, cordially, as he rose. "Can I do anything for you, Mr. Stone?"

"We want to know," his brother said, "how these hairpins work. This is a hairpin, isn't it?"

"Yes," Pat said. "They do look awkward, don't they? And I don't believe I know just how they are used. This is a man's hairpin, not a woman's. The men do up their hair in a peculiar way. The lower classes have them of brass or pewter, and the richer ones use gold or silver. This is a good one; where did you get it?"

"From Ming," Dan told him. "She had it in her collection. How did we happen to give it to her?"

"Probably Barry gave it to her," and Pat dropped the subject. "I'm mighty put out," he said. "I've been telephoning the coast guard people at New London to learn when we may hope to have the Mad Anthony back. And they won't say definitely. I don't see why it can't just as well be over here as there. And I'd like to have Mr. Stone look it over again. Don't you want to, Mr. Stone?"

"If it were here, I'd go over it, of course. But I made a very thorough search when I had the chance. I found no signs of anything helpful to our work, nor anything that could be called a clue. Another hunt might prove more profitable, but I doubt it."

"Are you getting on, to your own satisfaction, Mr. Stone," Dan asked. "Generally speaking, yes. I tell you frankly I have nothing to report as yet, but I have piled up many hints and clues and possibilities, which I hope will soon show us which way to look for the murderer."

"You can't tell by that," Hezekiah looked at Stone with the air of a Gamaliel teaching the man at his feet. "And I own I'd be might surprised to find Rod Campion did that hideous thing. But he's got an awful temper."

"How'd he get his opportunity?"

"Well, you say he went over to the yacht before Barry got there. Wanted to see him, we'll say. Well, then he could come again later on, but before they sailed, and had it out with Barry. Took a bluegown sort of weapon along, in case of need. Then, most likely, Mr. Van Zandt caught on, and had to be quietened. Now, own up, Mr. Stone, isn't that the way you figure it out?"

"Not just exactly. But it's very seldom that two detectives size up a case the same. They almost always take different views of it."

"Yes, I desay that's so," and Hezekiah's pride remained unburnt.

"The girl in this case, being Miss Holt?"

"Yes, sir, and that's a queer thing, too. Barry's been more'n half way engaged to Miss Jane, for a couple years. Yet Rod Campion never got a word on before!"

"Well, Kiah, remember we have no proof that Mr. Campion went on board the yacht a second time, and he couldn't have killed Barry the first time, because Barry wasn't there."

"Yes, sir, and here comes the Inspector gentleman. I'll have to boost him in."

The police car that brought Inspector Cox over was to wait his return, and he hurried Stone to an immediate conference which they held in Barry's library.

"We've pretty much come to the conclusion," the Inspector began.

"That Mrs. Van Zandt knows more about the murders than she has told. We think she meant no harm to Barry, but was anxious to be rid of her husband."

"Why?"

"Oh, for the usual reasons. She was tired of him and felt that if she was free she would be a rich woman in her own right, and could."

"You're choosy, marry a younger man."

"Not yet, but we're hoping to get it. Have you learned anything new?"

"This," Stone took from his pocket the small packet he had found behind the picture in Barry's smoking-room, and passed it over to his colleague.

"What is it?" Cox asked.

"That's what I want to know. I found it behind a picture on the wall of Barry's small room, next to his bedroom."

"This bundle, just as it is?"

"Yes, what do you think about it?"

"Can't say, till I have the stuff analysed. Of course, it might be"

It is, beyond all doubt, the strangest case I have ever known. And it implies a careful, deep-laid and very curious plot, planned out with the shrewdest intelligence I have ever seen at work. But I am making progress, and I can assure you that I shall succeed in my enterprise, though for a few days longer the progress may be slow."

It was the afternoon of the double funeral. The services were held at the mortuary chapel in San Hill, and save for some of the under servants, Fleming Stone was alone at Lang Syne.

Only Hezekiah, a houseman, was left to look after things. This gave Stone his chance to have a talk alone with this sagacious old-timer. After some search, he found his man on a small back porch, so overhung with creepers that Hezekiah himself could scarce be seen.

"Sad day for you, Kiah," Stone said, and the note of sympathy in his voice made up for the terse speech.

"Yep, and sadder days ter come." "Why do you gloom out here? Why don't you sit where you can see the sea?"

"I've seen the sea, Mr. Stone, who-kilt our boy? Who did?"

"I'm not yet quite decided in my own mind, Kiah. But I shall find out and soon, I hope. You must remember we detectives are not magicians. I have to learn all the facts I can, and then piece them together and consider the pattern they make. Now, in this case, the facts are exceeding few, and they are not indicative. For instance, I learned this morning that a man was on board the Mad Anthony before Barry and Mr. Van Zandt got there. Whether he had left the yacht or was still on it when they started, I do not know. Now, that might seem to be indicative, but of what use is it unless I know who that man was?"

"Did he find out?"

"Yes, and that was not indicative, either. It was Mr. Rodney Campion."

"Well, he never killed Mr. Van Zandt, whatever he might have did to Barry."

"He was fond of Van Zandt, then?"

"No, not special. But he was hopin' to get a job outen him. So he wouldn't kill him. As to Barry, now—"

"Well, as to Barry?"

"I can't think of Rod killin' Barry, though he mighta done anything 'just short of killin'." But girls was their bone of contention. Whenever one got a girl the other wanted her. Not that he loved her—all that that dratted love business is plumb foolishness. But they each thought it was smart to cabbage a girl's affections away from the other one. But killin' now, I can't think of Mr. Rod."

"Is he, Mr. Campion, a handy man about the house? Fixing things that are broken and the like of that?"

"Well, you jest ask Mr. Pat that!" Hezekiah chuckled. "You see, Mr. Pat has just about the finest tool chest that was ever assembled on this mortal shore. Well, that or nery Rod, he comes over here, day in and day out, and borrows Mr. Pat's tools, and takes 'em home, and forgets to bring 'em back, and Mr. Pat's nigh about driv crazy."

"Why does Mr. Pat lend his fine tools to the young nuisance?"

"Well, you see, that Rod, he ain't so dumb; he borrows 'em when Mr. Pat ain't home."

"Clever of him. But surely Pat Wayne could put a stop to that sort of thing."

"Well, you see, Mr. Pat's too easy going. Too much so for his own good. Everybody imposes on him, so they do. But you don't mean to tell me, sir, that young Campion took some tool of Mr. Pat's and killed Barry with it?"

"Heavens, no! How you do jump at conclusions! I only want to know if Campion is clever at tinkering about in a carpentering way."

"Yes, he is. Why, he fixed this very chair I'm settin' on. It was giv' up fer good, but I kinder liked it, and I hinted as much to him, and he got busy right away."

"If Mr. Dan is such a carpenter, why didn't he fix it?"

"Said he would a dozen times, and never got at it."

"Campion seems too good-natured a chap to do anything criminal."

"You can't tell by that," Hezekiah looked at Stone with the air of a Gamaliel teaching the man at his feet. "And I own I'd be might surprised to find Rod Campion did that hideous thing. But he's got an awful temper."

"How'd he get his opportunity?"

"Well, you say he went over to the yacht before Barry got there. Wanted to see him, we'll say. Well, then he could come again later on, but before they sailed, and had it out with Barry. Took a bluegown sort of weapon along, in case of need. Then, most likely, Mr. Van Zandt caught on, and had to be quietened. Now, own up, Mr. Stone, isn't that the way you figure it out?"

"Not just exactly. But it's very seldom that two detectives size up a case the same. They almost always take different views of it."

"Yes, I desay that's so," and Hezekiah's pride remained unburnt.

"The girl in this case, being Miss Holt?"

"Yes, sir, and that's a queer thing, too. Barry's been more'n half way engaged to Miss Jane, for a couple years. Yet Rod Campion never got a word on before!"

"Well, Kiah, remember we have no proof that Mr. Campion went on board the yacht a second time, and he couldn't have killed Barry the first time, because Barry wasn't there."

GRADS RETAIN
HOOP HONORSDefeat Vancouver Province,
64-42, in Second Game of Western Canada Series

EDMONTON, April 15 (CP).—Irresistible, the Edmonton Commercial Grads blazed through the Vancouver Province cagers for their thirteenth consecutive Western Canada senior girls' basketball championship tonight with a 64-42 victory here. The Grads had beaten the Coast champions in the first game of the series, 63-24, Saturday.

The Edmonton champions are leaving tomorrow for Windsor, Ont., to meet the Windsor-Walkerville Alumnae for the Canadian senior girls' basketball championship. The series will open next Saturday. Showing more staying power over the long route and lasting much better than in the opening game, the Coast cagers were a vastly improved team tonight and so gave the Grads a closer argument. They fought hard all the way and although outscored in every quarter made a brilliant finish drive to count sixteen points in the final quarter, just two points less than their opponents.

MACDONALD STARS

Once again the centre star of the Grads, Noel MacDonald, led her mates' scoring drive when she counted nineteen points. Doris Neale was next with thirteen, while Margaret MacBurney and Babe Belanger counted twelve and eleven points, respectively.

Mary Code was the spark plug of The Province team amassing a total of thirteen points. Betty Passerini was next with nine.

THE LINE-UPS

Old Landmark Falls Before Wreckers

The old Brackman Ker Milling Company, Ltd., mill at the mouth of Victoria Harbor, for many years a landmark, has at last fallen into the hands of the wreckers. Already a large portion of the top story has been removed. The mill has lain idle for several years, since the time the headquarters of the company in British Columbia were removed to the Mainland.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Curiosity Gets the Best of Peter

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Under the great pile of brush, deep in the Green Forest, Peter Rabbit sat without moving for the longest time. Somewhere under that brush behind him was Buster Bear. In a tree top out in front were Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty. Peter sat there waiting for something to happen and nothing did.

Peter was less interested in Mr. and Mrs. Hooty than in Buster Bear. You see, he felt perfectly safe from Mr. and Mrs. Hooty as long as he remained under that great pile of brush. But he didn't feel perfectly safe from Buster Bear. For a long time he expected any minute to hear sounds of Buster hunting for him.

But there were no sounds. There wasn't the least teeny, weeny sound. For all that Peter could hear he might have been the only living thing under that great pile of brush. By and by he began to think it queer that Buster made no sound. "If I hadn't seen him with my own eyes and actually touched his fur coat, I should think it was all a bad dream," muttered Peter to himself. "I wonder if anything can have happened to him. I wonder how he happens to be here anyway. He ought to be over in that ledge of rocks where he slept last winter."

He crept very slowly and very carefully

As the minutes slipped away and slipped away, and nothing happened, Peter's curiosity began to grow. You know Peter's great weakness is curiosity. The more he thought about it the more he wondered how it happened that Buster Bear was there. It was very, very queer that Buster didn't move. Could it be that something had happened to Buster and that he was dead? Supposing this were true, what a wonderful piece of news he would have to tell all the other little people.

Peter's curiosity was growing very fast. It was growing so fast that it was driving out fear. The longer he sat there the more he felt that he just simply must find out more about Buster Bear. He had been close to Buster once without anything happening to him, so why couldn't he do it again? The more he thought about it the more it seemed that he just must have another look at Buster Bear. By and by he got his courage up and began to creep back toward the middle of that great pile of brush. He crept very slowly and very carefully, stopping at each step to look and listen.

Deep down inside a little voice was talking to him. It kept telling him that he was foolish to run such a risk. At the same time curiosity was urging him on. Peter preferred to listen to curiosity, and so he kept on, creeping nearer and nearer to where Buster lay.

SHIPPING FIRM DISCONTINUES

Strike and Increased Costs
Too Much for Comyn
& Sons

The firm of W. L. Comyn & Sons, for many years a leading steamship organization on the Pacific Coast, has announced a discontinuance of business.

According to a letter sent to general creditors, the company has failed because of the prolonged strike of longshoremen last year caused the loss of capital and the company has struggled for eight months to rehabilitate the business without success owing to both the financial and labor conditions existing since the strike.

Suitable ships have not been obtainable for the Cascade Line on berth basis from foreign owners owing to the advance in the cost of loading on the Pacific Coast since the strike to the extent of more than 40 per cent and by the added cost of fuel since the first of the year amounting to approximately 33 per cent, making operation of vessels both in the line and on freight contracts entirely unprofitable on the basis of present conference rates on liner business and on present freight rates on contract business. The company owes general claims of about $84,000.

RIBBONS SWAMP TOILERS IN OPENING FIXTURE

Major League Ball Clubs Will Swing Into Action Today

Over 200,000 Expected to Witness Opening Fixtures in American and National Leagues—President Roosevelt to Officiate at Washington

Babe Ruth

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP).—Despite the threat of being given a cold shoulder by Old Man Weather, major league baseball will take off tomorrow in mass formation on a 154-game flight. It is calculated to develop extraordinary competitive excitement and to recapture old-time prosperity. The forecast is for a much colder turn of weather over-night along the Eastern seaboard, with a parting salute from Winter in the Middle West.

A snowstorm forced the champion Detroit Tigers to cancel their final workout. Cincinnati reported snowflurries but a sellout, nevertheless, for the opening game between the "Reds" and Pittsburgh Pirates. Chicago's forecast alone was "fair and warmer" for the opening, which will pit the mighty Dizzy Dean of the world-champion Cardinals against the great Lon Warneke of the Cubs.

PRESIDENT TO OFFICIATE
Skies promise to be clear but overcoats will be necessary in the East for those who expect to turn out for the big day, either to join President Roosevelt in the send-off at Washington or to witness the debut of Babe Ruth at a National League game in Boston against the opposition furnished by the celebrated Carl Hubbell and New York Giants.

Latest reports from the scenes of the impending championship action indicated an aggregate turnout of at least 200,000 for the eight opening games.

Chicago topped the list with 42,000 predicted for Wrigley Field, where the Cubs and the Cardinals will renew their old rivalry. The Braves hoped to draw at least 35,000 for their opener with the Giants. The Yankees expected another 35,000 to see the first "Ruthless" New York club in fifteen years, with the Boston Red Sox furnishing the opposition.

Heading for Another Canadian Hoop Title

Here's the latest picture of the Victoria Blue Ribbons, British Columbia men's cage champions, who yesterday evening snowed the Winnipeg Toilers under a 53-23 defeat in the first game of the Western Canada basketball play-downs staged in the Main Building at the Willows Exhibition grounds. The second fixture will be played tomorrow evening, and a victory here for the Ribbons will advance them to the Canadian final against the Assumption-College-Notre-Dame de Grace series now being played at Windsor, Ontario. Those in the picture are: Back row, left to right, George "Porky" Andrews, Doug Peden, "Chuck" Chapman (captain), Alvin "Red" Martin, Art Chapman and Dave Nicol (trainer). Centre row: Jackie Barnwell, mascot and son of Manager J. A. "Barney" Barnwell. Front row: Bill Wallis, Johnny Craig and Alec McKeachie. Joe Ross, another member of the squad, was absent when the picture was taken.

VICTORIA HOOPMEN TROUNCE WINNIPEG CAGERS WITH EASE

Breeze Through to 53 to 23 Victory Over Visitors Without Much Trouble—Doug Peden Leads Scorers With Twenty Points—Second of Series to Be Played Tomorrow Night

eve of the Toilers' trip West to defend their Canadian championship.
Doug Peden, tricky and fast-moving guard, was high scorer for the evening, leading the Ribbons' machine with twenty points, all of them tossed in from the floor during lightning attacks on the Toilers' hoop. Art Chapman, rangy centre, was next to Peden with fifteen points, six field goals and three from the foul strip, while "Porky" Andrews was next with nine points, three baskets and a like number of awarded shots. Chuck Chapman turned in a great game at guard, saving several baskets by leaping into the air and knocking the ball out of bounds. His intercepting work also stood out and the Toilers had a hard time getting by him and Peden.

shortly after on four personals. From then on it was just a case of how many baskets the Ribbons would score before the finish. Peden, the Chapmans and Andrews just kept going through for more field goals, and then the locals finished with two of their reserves in uniform.

In the preliminary game, Lake Hill won from Hoyle-Brown by a 42 to 28 score. The losers were leading at the interval, 17-12, but failed to stop the rush of the Lake Hill squad in the final half. The game was marred by an accident to Ray Kersey, Lake Hill forward, who dislocated his hip in the second period and was taken to the hospital. Harding refereed and the teams follow:

Lake Hill—R. Mitchell (8), R. Kersey (6), B. Mitchell (5), P. Atkinson (2), Jones, Cunningham, Bates, M. Atkinson (2).

Hoyle-Brown—Fraser, Goldsmith (16), Robertson (6), Patterson (2), Tubman, Levy (4), Preston.

Enters Open Meet
NEW YORK, April 15 (CP).—Sid Brews, South African professional who finished second to Henry Cotton in the 1934 British open, will be among the 149 contenders for the United States open golf crown at Pittsburgh in June.

The United States Golf Association has reserved ten places in the field of 150 for professionals of other lands. Six have been assigned to Japanese.

Races Scheduled For Good Friday Are Postponed

Postponement of the annual Good Friday bicycle races was announced yesterday by George Robinson, secretary of the Victoria Cycling Club, under whose auspices the events are held. The track at Beacon Hill has recently been sanded and oiled, and is therefore unsafe for riding.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made, the races will be held in conjunction with the May 24 celebration.

Remember When (Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Among the football fraternity there is marked interest in the forthcoming engagement between British and native-born soccerites. Those who took the trouble to weigh the chances of the two elements, after noting the personnel of the two, must have concluded that the contest is bound to be one of exceptional speed. The rivals are strong, they are both out for victory, and the sporting public is going to be treated to a splendid exhibition when they clash next Saturday at the Oak Bay Park.

The Native Sons are especially strong in defence. As fullbacks there are Samuel Lorimer and Robert

Two Cup Soccer Matches Billed Here Saturday

WITH the net gate receipts being devoted to the injured players' fund, two cup matches will be played on Saturday at the Royal Athletic Park. Saanich Thistles and Esquimalt, First Division football eleven, will meet in a McGavin Cup match at 2:30 o'clock with Ralph Alcock as referee, and at 4 o'clock Victoria West and Esquimalt, Second Division teams, will clash in a semi-final of the Peden Cup competition. Dave Swan will handle the whistle. In case of a draw, overtime will be played.

Whyte, two of the finest men for that position to be found in Victoria. Then there are a number of half-backs that would be hard to beat. The forwards are not quite as good, but they are live ones and not the kind it would be well to give a chance. The Britishers are just the opposite. Their vanguard is the choicest part of their line-up. They have a vanguard that will keep Whyte and Lorimer humming. Their defence, while not quite as heavy and trustworthy, is by no means weak. All things considered it is not overdrawn the prospects to say that the best football match of the season is promised.

Keen Competition Seen At Gun Dog Club Trial

Annual Spring Event Proves Very Successful—Norman H. Lord Wins Gordon Setter and Junior Stakes—J. Spencer Cops All-Age Stake—Judge Praises Dogs

Twenty-two dogs, five of them from Nanaimo, competed in the annual Spring field trial of the Victoria and District Gun-Dog Club held Sunday on the logged-off property along the Cowichan Lake Road, thirteen miles north of Duncan.

Favored with ideal weather conditions and plenty of blue grouse, the trial was easily the most successful ever staged by the club. The Up-Island entry provided added keenness to the competition, and officials of the club look for a still larger Nanaimo contingent for future trials.

Three stakes were run off, including the junior stake for dogs whelped on or after January 1, 1934; the open all-age shooting dog stake, and the Gordon setter stake.

CUP WINNERS
The Austin C. Taylor Cup for the all-age honors was won by J. Spencer's Lady Wellington, while Norman H. Lord's Cowichan Boy captured the event for Gordon setters, and retained possession of the coveted W. W. Brewer Cup. Mr. Lord also won the junior stake with Cowichan Mack.

JUDGE PRAISES DOGS
T. O. Hillier, Vancouver, who has judged many important trials in Western Canada and the United States, was the official judge. The Mainland official spoke well of the work done by the dogs and stressed the keenness of the competition in the different classes. The puppies also drew a word of praise from the judge for their good work.

Unfortunately the only Irish setter was forced to retire, owing to an accidental injury to his foot.

The following competed: Junior stake, N. H. Lord's Cowichan Mack and Shaun of Sunnyside, Pat Martin's Dan and Ed. Claryard's Cowichan Flash.

All-age stake—D. Miller's Little John, N. H. Lord's Trux, J. Clark's Geoffrey D., N. H. Lord's Cowichan Boy, F. Topp Turner's Thorp Cloud Ann, G. Fane's Bill, Leslie Dick's Pep, H. Brodbeck's Southend Bruce, J. Reinhard's Flashy Jim, J. Spencer's Lady Wellington, Northfield Mona and N. Highflyer, Tom Brown's Pep II, J. Whitaker's Sport, H. Crease's Devenish Jean and Bauchory Girl, A. L. Green's Queenie and Jack Ritchie's Sport.

Results follow:
Junior Stake—1. M. H. Lord's Cowichan Mack; 2. Pat Martin's Dan; 3. E. Claryard's Cowichan Flash.

All-age Stake—1. J. Spencer's Lady Wellington; 2. Leslie Dick's Pep; 3. F. Topp Turner's Thorp Cloud Ann.

Highly Commended—Jack Ritchie's Sport, J. Reinhard's Flashy Jim. Commended—Charles Fisher's Trux.

Judge Hillier decided that the best performance among the Gordon setters was put up by Norman Lord's Cowichan Boy, and in consequence, Mr. Lord retains the beautiful Brewer Cup for another year.

Local Team Named For Fixture With Vancouver Rangers

VANCOUVER, Rangers, leading Mainland soccer eleven, will make their Victoria debut Good Friday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park, when they battle Victoria United in a regular Inter-City League fixture at 2 o'clock. T. M. Robb will handle the whistle. Announced yesterday by club officials, the local line-up follows: Goal, Louis DeCosta; full-backs, Ab March, Sammy Essler; half-backs, Ronnie Williams, Roy Barnes, William Boyd; forwards, Gordie Bell, Alex Stewart, John Watt, Noel Morgan and George Payne. Substitutes: West, Harper, Bob Pearce, Ernie Lorandini, Eddie Gibson, Eddie Viggers and John Campbell.

BARNEY ROSS RELINQUISHES FIGHT CROWN

Chicago Jew Gives Up Lightweight Title—Making Weight Problem

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP).—Barney Ross, the little fellow who has ruled the lightweights for the past two years, decided he was too big for them today, and so he turned in his resignation as champion of the 135-pounders to the New York State Athletic Commission.

This sudden move, first of its kind in light-weight title history that goes all the way back to 1868, when Abe Hicken beat Pete McGuire in brought several swift developments.

First, it relieved the dapper little Chicago wallop of the necessity of fighting Lou Ambers, a tough, rubber-ball sort of warrior who has been pestering him for a chance at the lightweight crown for months, and who is designated as the No. 1 title challenger here.

ANOTHER FIGHT
It paved the way for another really "big money" battle between Ross and Jimmy McLarnin, the welterweight king, whom Barney out-pointed last May to become a double champion, and then bowed to in a return engagement in September. Mike Jacobs, promoter of the newly-formed Twentieth Century Sporting Club, has their rubber duel all arranged and will ask the boxing commission tomorrow for permission to stage it May 28 in the Polo Grounds.

Ross, who won the lightweight championship from Tony Canzonero in Chicago, June 23, 1933, and defended it only once against Tony here the same fall, weighed only 136 1/2 pounds for his match last night.

His managers said, however, he was weak even at that weight, and so they decided he must never try to make 135 pounds again.

Registers 3-2 Win Over Port Arthur In Fast Encounter

Eastern Hockey Squad Scores All Goals in Initial Period—Bearcats Fight Back Gamely—Nash Stars in Losers' Net

HALIFAX, April 15 (CP)—Swift and sure on the attack, Halifax Bearcats, tonight, 3-2, in the opening encounter of the Canadian senior amateur hockey finals. The menacing Westerners will be back looking for blood Wednesday. They need to win then, or the Allan Cup will remain in the East for the third consecutive year.

The "Old Wolves," facing the aggressive "Cub Cats," struck early in the fray, piling up three goals in the first period and matching experience with speed to hold the advantage.

Lanky Vince Ferguson, veteran warrior, who has been with the Halifax pack since it was organized in 1928, drew first blood for the Wolverines and beat Jackie Nash again to regain the lead after Bill Thompson had tied the count.

BOOSTS LEAD
Just before the opening session ended, Ron Hudson boosted the lead with a hard drive from inside the blue line.

The brilliant Thompson, who caught Bubar unawares with a long wing shot in the first period, gave Bearcats their other marker early in the second, on a clever pass from Alex Sinclair.

Averaging only twenty-three years of age, the "home brew" Western champions had 5,000 fans cheering for them as they battled old hands collected from all over the country. The first-string snipers—Friday, Sinclair and Thompson—made the stout Halifax defence look off color on repeated attacks, but they failed to worry the veteran "Daddy" Bubar even when the Wolverines were short handed.

Their shots were wild, and the second line of Jimmy Hagarty, Arnold Deacon and Gus Saxberg experienced the same trouble. What the invaders had in abundance was speed. Time and again they went through the Halifax defence without being checked, only to miss the net or be stopped by Bubar.

Jackie Nash, the nineteen-year-old goalie just from the junior ranks, was a hero. After Hudson's drive got by he settled down and saved the Westerners from a rout. Once in the third period when Bearcats were weakened by a penalty, the slim netminder handled three scorers in a matter of seconds, catching one as he lay on his back between the posts.

HART TROPHY WON BY SHORE

Defence Star of Boston Bruins Voted Most Useful N.H.L. Player

MONTREAL, April 15. (CP)—Eddie Shore, main dynamo in the Boston Bruins powerhouse, tonight was announced as winner of the Dr. David A. Hart Trophy as the most useful player to his team in the National Hockey League season which has just closed. For the seventh time in his career and for the third time in a row, Frank Boucher, star centre player of New York Rangers, has been awarded the Lady Byng Trophy, given the player who best embodies the highest type of sportsmanship combined with superior playing ability.

Both awards were made by vote of sports writers in each city of the National Hockey League circuit. Shore was voted the Hart trophy for the second time in his career. He had previously won it in 1932-33. This season he was given considerable opposition in the voting by Charlie Conacher, Toronto's big right-winger and the league's leading scorer, who was a close second, and Art Coulter, Chicago defenceman.

Take this Check-List of 21 Important Points with you when you go to Buy a Bicycle

With this check list as a guide you can put any bicycle through a searching examination, or you can use it to compare one make of bicycle with another. If you are a boy, show this check list to your dad. Go over it with him point by point before you go with him to the bicycle dealer's. Then you'll both know all the important points to look for in a bicycle and be able to buy one in an expert way.

|------------------|---|-------------------------|--|
| 1—Hanger | The crank hanger (the power plant of the bicycle) should have fine adjustment, with free running large ball bearings, no tight spots. C.C.M. Triplets and one-piece hangers meet all these specifications and are perfectly balanced. | 11—Bright Parts | These should be chromium plated over a high-class nickel plate foundation. They they'll withstand weather and retain their beauty. The C.C.M. nickel foundation is so superior it has become known as 20-Year Nickel. |
| 2—Drive | To avoid waste of pedalling effort, the bicycle should have a Straight Line Drive. The C.C.M. Drive is so straight and true that front and back wheels track like one, and both sprockets line up truly. | 12—Ball Races | To withstand friction, these should be carburized to a liberal depth, not merely "skin hardened." C.C.M.'s are deeply carburized. |
| 3—Brake | This should be of the positive drive principle, should coast freely and stop quickly and smoothly. The hub shell should be made of hot steel. The Hercules Coaster Brake meets all these requirements. | 13—Seat Posts | Should be of cadmium-plated steel to resist rust and present a surface that holds tightly to the saddle clamp and frame. All C.C.M.'s have this feature. |
| 4—Frames | These should be rigid, staunch and shock resisting—made from seamless steel tubing—a real backbone for the bicycle. They should be truly built, so as to permanently retain the Straight Line Drive principle. C.C.M. frames are truly built and so strong that there is no give to them when you drive hard on the pedals. | 14—Handle Bars | Should be of cold drawn seamless steel tubing, formed to shape without heating. This is true of all C.C.M. handle bars. |
| 5—Forks | These should have plenty of reserve strength to withstand jabs and jolts, and to carry the extra weight of a loaded parcel carrier if required. C.C.M. front forks are built that way. | 15—Sprockets | Both Sprockets should have accurately cut teeth to ensure the smooth action of the chain rollers. All the teeth on the C.C.M. Sprockets are accurately cut to one one-thousandth of an inch. |
| 6—Pedals | Should be of the ball bearing type so as to turn easily, have hard wearing rubbers and weather resistant metal parts. All C.C.M. pedals have these features, particularly the Gibson pedal which has a one-piece aluminium frame and secured rubbers. | 16—Guards | Should be stiff and strong, of a non-rattling type, with rigid braces. C.C.M. guards are of special design made from extra heavy gauge steel and held in place by stiff channel braces. |
| 7—Wheels | Rims should be chromium plated or enameled steel. The spokes should be of rustless steel, having a high tensile strength and shock resistant. C.C.M. wheels have these features, are carefully built and hand trued. | 17—Accuracy | Every part of a bicycle should be accurately made so as to fit properly and the finished bicycle to run truly. C.C.M. parts are accurately made. |
| 8—Saddle | Should be smart, light in weight, comfortably shaped and with easy-riding springs. The C.C.M. saddles are carefully chosen. | 18—Trued Up | The bicycle should be "trued up" before it leaves the factory so that it will track perfectly, run evenly, balance exactly and steer easily. The expense of "truing up" is never neglected in a C.C.M. |
| 9—Tires | Should be of the highest grade. The famous Dunlop Bicycle Tires (Furt or Imperial) are standard equipment on C.C.M.'s. | 19—Service Parts | Service parts should be readily obtainable and at reasonable prices. Genuine C.C.M. parts, fairly priced, can be obtained promptly from C.C.M. dealers all over Canada. |
| 10—Finish | The Frames should be sand-blasted and thoroughly cleaned, then given a coat of anti-rust, followed by several coats of brilliant, hard-wearing enamel thoroughly baked on. C.C.M. Frames are enameled this way. | 20—Guarantee | When you buy a bicycle you should get a guarantee that means something and with a good company behind it. C.C.M. gives a Service Guarantee Bond with the sale of every C.C.M. Bicycle and the firm is right here in Canada to make good its promise. |
| | | 21—Resale Value | The bicycle you choose should have a good resale or trade-in value. A "used" C.C.M. commands a better price than an ordinary bicycle. |

"Transient Lady" Currently Showing—Gene Raymond Starred With Frances Drake

Swift-moving melodrama, delightful romance, sparkling comedy, deft direction and brilliant acting are all found in Universal's new film, "Transient Lady," which opens today at the Dominion Theatre with Gene Raymond, Henry Hull, Frances Drake and June Clayworth in the featured roles.

The story centres around a trio of wandering promoters, a young girl, a young man and a middle-aged man, who arrive in the town of Karnak to start a roller skating rink.

Running the small Southern town is Hamp Baxter, played by Henry Hull. Hamp is a crooked politician and nothing happens without his approval. But on the night of the opening of the skating rink a gang of his relatives, town hoodlums, try a lot of rough stuff on the older member of the wandering trio and one of them is shot and killed. The blame is being fixed on young Clark Williams, who portrays the young man of the two, and things look very bad for him.

On the Screen
Capitol—"Sequoia," an animal picture.
Columbia—Arthur Byron in "The President Vanishes."
Dominion—"Transient Lady," starring Gene Raymond.
Playhouse—Janet Gaynor in "The Servants' Entrance."

when Gene Raymond, in the role of the leading young lawyer of the town, comes to his defence.

Meanwhile romance has been budding between the roller skating girl and the young lawyer, and, of course, he frees the youth and wins the girl in the end.

CAPITOL The most startling innovation in screen entertainment since motion pictures were first discovered is offered in "Sequoia," M-G-M's nature drama featuring Jean Parker, and now showing at the Capitol Theatre. A human romance is blended into a story of animal life containing such unheard-of scenes as a mountain lion and a deer, nature's most deadly enemies, playing together like lambs, and hundreds of deer on migration into high Sierra regions never before photographed by a camera.

PLAYHOUSE Lew Ayres, co-starring with Janet Gaynor in Fox's "Servants' Entrance," now at the Playhouse Theatre, plays the part of a young chauffeur who has invented a new type of speedboat. In real life, Ayres is a versatile mechanic and amateur astronomer, besides being an accomplished musician.

COLUMBIA Paul Kelly, currently featured in "The President Vanishes," now at the Columbia Theatre, began his acting career at the tender age of seven. In his first stage job he marched across the stage as a drummer boy in David Warfield's "The Army Man." Kelly is featured with Arthur Byron, Peggy Conklin, Janet Beecher and Edward Arnold.

PERHAPS YOUR LETTER OR YOUR PROBLEM IS ANSWERED IN THIS COLUMN

So many of the letters received present similar problems that it is impossible, because of limited space, to answer them all at once.

Will my readers please study the answers printed in this column and see if therein they cannot find the solution to their problems?

BOY FRIEND SHOULD SHARE BLAME

Precious: You have a good disposition, are well-to-do, and have a large circle of friends, boys and girls. You had a particular boy friend who was attentive to you for more than a year until another girl intruded. She has a way with her, she has won him away, and now she avoids and dislikes you. You want to know if the boy will come back to you when he finds the girl is a flirt and a flatterer.

There is no way of knowing which way a young man's fancy will turn, but if I were you, I wouldn't waste an hour wondering about the behavior of this particular boy or the intrusive girl either. Just consider the truth, which is that the boy could not have been won away unless he was willing to be won. The girl avoids and dislikes you because she knows she has betrayed your friendship with meanness and deceit and you are a constant reminder to her of her perfidy.

Pass them both by with chin high and enjoy your position and your wide circle of real friends.

Unhappy Mary: You love the boy so much that his jealousy is a sword in your heart. You're miserable when you're with him for fear you will say something of which he disapproves and he won't love you as much as you pray he will. He is going with another girl, but when you go with other boys hoping to bring him to his senses he laughs at you and at them. You want to know if you should go on trying to make him love you or whether you should give him up and try to find someone more worthy.

If you enjoy having a sword in your heart, Mary, then just go on trying to do the impossible. You can't make a man love you by cringing before him and choking him with your affection. No wonder your man laughs at you. You're lucky if he doesn't sneer at you, too.

Surprise him, Mary. Say what you please so long as it is not deliberately hurtful, and do what you please so long as it is not harmful. Then you will at least merit his admiration, and you may even shock him into loving you.

CONCENTRATE ON OTHER INTERESTS

Lonesome Jane: You care deeply for the boy, you are good to him, kind to him, but he always seems to be angry with you and does things to arouse your anger. He prefers another girl, and you think that may only be a come-back because he suspects you love another boy.

And I think, my dear Jane, you are thinking with your heart and not with your head. It soothes your wounded affection to believe the boy is attentive to the other girl in order to break even with you. If he is angry with you all the time and resentful toward you he does not love you and trying to force his affection would only increase his anger and resentment. You are so young. Why don't you forget him for a while and turn your interest in other directions. At least you can try, and my bet is that you'll soon enough discover the world is made up of a number of nice boys.

Midget: If its to be an evening party, a selection of sandwiches, salted nuts and olives, ice cream and cake with punch or coffee or both would be tasty. A chicken or shrimp salad with bread and butter sandwiches is another choice. One of my most popular party dishes is a large platter of sausages, the small ones, crisp and brown, with hot rolls and tomato salad. This always appeals to the men, but I notice the women never wave the sausages away.

Worried Wife: If you express an opinion contrary to that held by your husband an argument starts and invariably ends in angry words and a couple of days' silence between you. You want to know whether you must become a mere rubber stamp for your husband's opinions or whether you should keep up this battle all your life?

There is no need for you to do either. It is your right to hold an opinion and to express it. Having done so, why not stop where you are. Since the two of you can not argue rationally, don't argue at all. It takes two to carry on an argument, you know. Let your husband understand you will discuss a subject with him quietly and reasonably, but that you refuse to be drawn into an argument or any angry discussion.

Tennis Courts to Open Next Month

At the first committee meeting of the Public Schools Tennis Club held recently, the date for the official opening of the courts was fixed for May 24. However, in view of the progress reported by the grounds committee, it was anticipated that with normal weather conditions prevailing the members would have access to the courts by May 18, though the official opening would be deferred until a week later.

A motion that senior membership be restricted to fifty players was carried unanimously and it was reported that on this basis a few vacancies still exist.

HAMILTON LOSES GOALIE SHEVLIN

Shevin had his hand badly damaged in the game against Queen of the South Saturday and, following examination by the club's doctor today, it was said the prospects of his playing in the cup final were hopeless.

A "CHINESE" COPY

"Did you read the Chinese copy of this contract?" asked an attorney recently of a witness in a New York court.

The witness, replying in the affirmative, did not intend nor was he understood to indicate that he was in the slightest acquainted with the Chinese language.

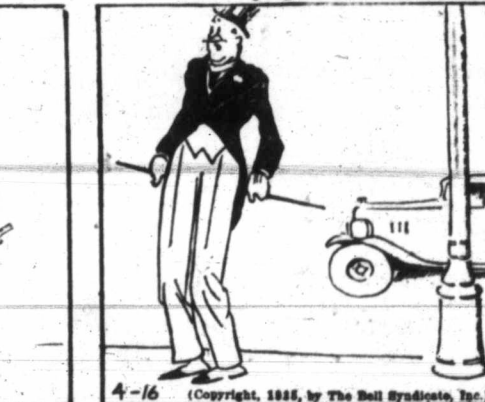

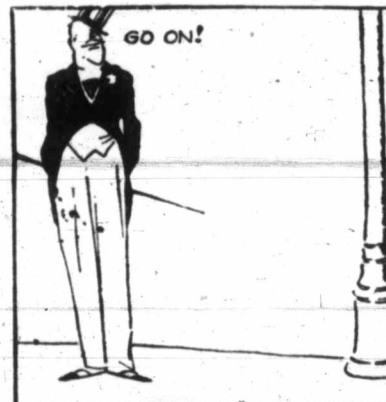

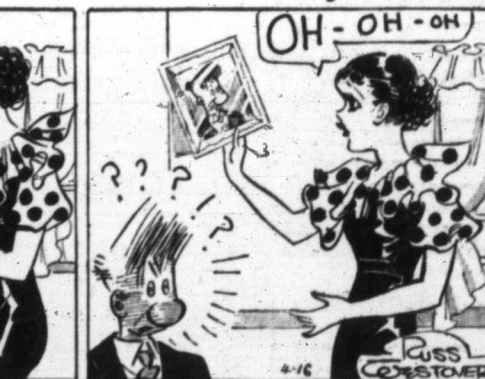

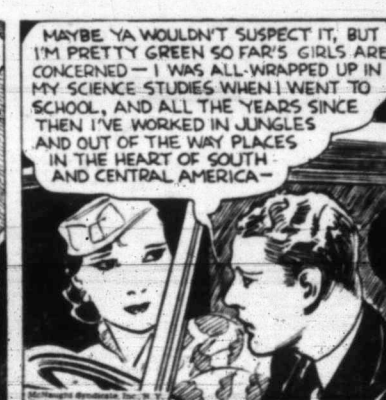

The word Chinese in this connection is familiar to lawyers, particularly in its use in connection with the agreement in writing, upon which the parties concerned have made interlineations, erasures, scratchings, all manner of corrections, till the draft may very well be illegible to all but those directly affected—and sometimes even to them.

It is because of this illegibility sometimes amounting to indecipherability that such a document was first described by an unknown genius as a Chinese copy—an apt phrase in any language.

DUNCAN SEES FINE BLOOMS

Clash of Events Affects Attendance at Splendid Show of Flowers

DUNCAN, April 15.—Beautiful blooms featured the twenty-ninth annual Spring Flower Show put on under the auspices of the King's Daughters. The judges were Mr. Pemberton and Mr. and Mrs. Mathieson, of Victoria. The Scout and Guide rally in Victoria and the musical festival at Nanaimo adversely affected the attendance this year, and almost wiped out the entries in children's classes, which are usually well represented. Those who did attend were, however, well rewarded.

ing shrubs from the gardens of R. M. Palmer, of Cowichan Bay. A new feature this year was an interesting and instructive lecture on "Rock Plants and Gardens," given by J. A. Grant, of Victoria. POTATO GROWERS ARE ORGANIZED

Arrangements Completed for Marketing Control in Island Area—Delayed by Interior

KEATING, April 15.—Potato growers of district number seven, comprising Esquimalt, Victoria, Gordon Head, Saanich, Metcheson, Sooke and The Islands, met at the Temperance Hall, Keating, L. C. Hagan, presiding.
The chief speaker was A. H. Peterson, of Duncan, member of the provisional board of the British Columbia coast vegetable marketing scheme. George T. Michell, of North Saanich, was nominated a delegate to represent number seven district at a forthcoming meeting in Vancouver.
A motion to the following effect was passed and forwarded to the Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa: "That arrangements have been completed for the marketing control of potatoes in this area, but, owing to the Interior board as yet not having control, and being unable to control shipping from their area, this board cannot take any definite steps without complete control being available."

FIRES THREATEN ALBERNI HOMES

PORT ALBERNI, April 15.—For several hours Saturday afternoon and again on Sunday afternoon a number of residences on Redford Heights were threatened with destruction when bush fires raged through the woods. Years ago this district was logged and hundreds of fallen trees are lying on the ground. These have been completely covered by dry bushes, leaves and ferns which have accumulated year after year. The local fire department, assisted by many volunteers, had a hard fight before bringing the flames under control.

ROBBERS UNABLE TO ENTER STORE

Attempts to Break Into Government's Liquor Shop Fail—Suspect Is Arrested

PORT ALBERNI, April 15.—A determined effort to break into the local Government Liquor Store was made about 3 a.m. on Sunday. Marks on the rear window and warehouse door show that the culprits first attempted to force their way in through the storage room. This failing, they next attempted to force the front door. The screws had been removed from the door plate and the solid brass plate had been bent, evidently with some heavy iron instrument. When this held, however, a bold attempt was made to force an entry by breaking the large plate glass window.
The sound of breaking glass aroused the employees of a bake-shop across the road and they rushed out, to see a man running up the street.
The police were later notified, and from a description given by the employees a suspect was arrested and lodged in the local lockup.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

MINERAL FOODS NECESSARY FOR HEALTHY NERVES

One of the mistakes made by one suffering with indigestion and constipation is thinking that if he or she does with as small an amount of food as possible it will be "easier" on the digestive organs, and there will not be as much waste from the food left in the large intestine.

Thus he keeps such a constant watch on his food intake and the amount of waste that is removed, that it "gets on his mind," and actually affects his mental as well as his physical health. This fear of eating and of the accumulation of wastes can lessen the ability of the digestive tract to do its work and also cause constipation.

Those who, because of fear or because of actual disease of the digestive tract, suffer much from indigestion, keep leaving out of their diet one food after another that they think disagrees with them until they come to subsist upon a very restricted diet. In general the diet becomes so poor from the chemical standpoint that malnutrition and loss of weight results.

The nervous system needs a definite amount of certain foods, and when these are not eaten, the nervous system can be definitely harmed. The foods containing mineral salts are especially necessary to the nervous system, and as you know, the nerves regulate the body processes. Thus these nervous, inward looking, excitable and emotional individuals should make sure of a liberal supply of foods containing minerals.

The foods rich in minerals are milk, cheese, leafy vegetables, egg yolk, whole grains, liver, sea foods, dried fruits, fresh fruits.

The foods poor in mineral salts are fat pork, bacon, lard and suet, butter, salad oil, sugars, confectionery, purified starches and white flours.

Fortunately no harm comes from eating an excess of these mineral foods.

If the amounts of fruits and vegetables, eggs and meat in the diet must be limited on account of the expense it is wise to use whole grain breads and breakfast cereals instead of those made from highly milled grains.

The way to make sure of providing a safe surplus of mineral elements is to include in each day's menu liberal amounts of one or two foods rich in each of the mineral elements—calcium, phosphorus and iron as mentioned above.
